Citizens want ICC to scrap new lines

In a rage of applause and anger, area residents showed the Illinois Commerce Commission and their local government officials at the Lake Villa public hearing how they felt and what they will do if Commonwealth Edison gets the go ahead to complete the lines.

The public hearing at the Lake Villa Intermediate School, one of three public schools that would be directly in the new 138,000-volt lines' electromagnetic field, contained the same emotional electricity of a college football homecoming game with the seriousness of a gunfight in a dusty western town.

"I know how I will vote if our elected officials let Edison build this line," said one angry resident at the crowd. "They will be out of office before they knew what happened."

Some of the many local government officials who were in attendance and listening at the second of four scheduled ICC public hearings were state Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and state Rep. John Matijevich (D-Waukegan), who sat in the front of the crowd at a table where ICC Public Forum Officer Geny Charadonna conducted the forum next to ICC Director Philip Gonet.

Local groups Citizens Against UnSafe

Electricity (CAUSE) and Mothers Against Commonwealth Edison (MACE) were also in attendance to show their resolve to the ICC.

The July 29 forum, which lasted nearly three hours, gave every citizen the opportunity to speak not only to the ICC, but also to Edison representatives, including District Manager Ron Crawford, who were also in attendance.

Most residents spoke about the need for a moratorium until the safety issue with EMFs can be answered adequately.

"We are not laboratory animals in an experiment," said Joan Fisher of West Milmore.

Matijevich added that he wants the state legislature to pass a moratorium on high voltage transmission lines until the health issues can be studied more.

"We will find that there is a health risk with EMF just as we did with asbestos," said Matijevich. "If we err, let us err on the side of caution."

Health concerns brought up by both CAUSE and MACE include cancer and leukemia development in humans who have been exposed to EMF radiation, especially small children.

"I have read scientific studies and articles in Mothering Magazine and it's scary to think what might happen," said (Continued on Page 5)

Antioch china maker gives First Dog a custom bowl

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Not everyone gets the opportunity to romp in the grass on the White House lawn, but those who do deserve special treatment.

So it goes with the current First Dog Millie, whose masters are none other than President George Bush and wife, Barbara.

When Pickard China Co. received the contract to furnish the Presidential China aboard Air Force One, the president's customized 747 that flies his staff and up to 100 media reporters wherever our executive leader must go, Pickard President Henry A. Pickard decided to put a little something special in the shipment to Andrews Air Force Base, where Air Force One is stationed.

According to Marketing Director Patti Kral, when base officials opened the crate containing the 12 presidential place settings of opulent china, they also found a matching fine china feeding dish created personally for Millie from Pickard.

"Millie's bowl matches the presidential service," said Kral. "Her name was fired into the bottom of the bowl in gold."

Pickard carefully selected the appropriate shape for the bowl after consulting with Mrs. Bush's personal secretary to ensure that the volume was appropriate to accommodate Millie's snout but would keep her long, furry ears out of her food.

With this being an election year, the possibility of President Bush leaving office after this term is a real one. This leaves the question of where the bowl will go after Bush's tenure in office is over.

"Mr. and Mrs. Bush may step off Air Force One for the last time empty handed, (Continued on Page 6)

Island Lake turtle makes big news

ISLAND LAKE—"Illinois town terrorized by man-eating turtle," is a headline story in the Aug. 18 issue of Weekly World News, a tabloid featuring sensationalized stories. This one is about a six foot, 70-pound turtle no one has ever seen. The story began last spring on a rumor that a turtle devoured a pet dog. Another August publication, Midwest Outdoor, features a story about Cecil B. Turtle by Trustee Fred Bigham. He describes how the capture of two smaller turtles by the village's public works director led to a yarn that has resulted in clippings from around the nation. "It must have been a slow news summer," Bigham said about the notoriety that has showered on the community of 4,500.

Parents to tell views on school bus fees

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake District 46 parents may be asked in a survey if they wish to pay for busing. Bus routes were cut in January, saving the district $60,000. The busing issue is expected to be discussed at an Aug. 17 board meeting.

Zion Olympian injures foot, wins silver medal anyway

BARCELONA—A silver medal at the Olympics doesn't sound to most people like something you'd have to "settle" for. But for Juan Moreno of Zion, being named the world's second greatest Tae Kwon Do athlete in his weight class on Wednesday was a bittersweet end to a world-class career. Having won the silver medal during the 1988 Olympics, 21-year-old Moreno wanted to end his competing career with a gold.

But winning the silver medal in the finweight class this week nonetheless represented a miraculous effort. Moreno injured and may have broken his foot in a quarterfinal match, held in the early morning, U.S. Central time, but battled on to win the match and his semifinal match before a defeat in the championship round. Moreno was defeated 3-1 by Gergely Salim of Denmark, who took the gold.

Moreno "is sad of course, because he wanted to win the gold," said his sister Melissa Moreno, 18, of Zion. "But he's mostly just exhausted." Moreno's mother Karen attended the Barcelona matches and phoned home with the news.

Moreno's foot had been broken in a competition many months before and had healed, his sister said. Even after Juan reinjured himself, "he fought just beautifully," Melissa said. Juan had fought back numerous physical and emotional obstacles to return to Olympic competition this year. But he is approaching the age when he plans to retire from the sport, so Barcelona was to be his swan song. He may attend the 1994 Pan-American Games, however.

"I'm kind of upset for him," Melissa said, "but I'm still proud of him."

Little drug-counseling center on the prairie

by DAN BERNARD
Lakeland Newspapers

Driving past the dusty silos and cornfields along the west end of Route 120, motorists may be surprised to see a shiny new building that looks like a bigger, modernized version of the country schoolhouse.

More surprising is the work that goes on inside in the Round Lake building—the work of steering Lake County residents away from dangerous addictions, and helping others to avoid them in the first place.

The anomalous building at Belvidere and Fish Lake Road is the new office of a not-so-new institution that has been helping the county deal with drug and alcohol abuse and other problems for years. The Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) in July moved out of the Fox Lake office it had outgrown and into the new spot.

The move not only reflects the literal growth of NICASA's counseling programs, organizers said. It reflects a shift to serve the growing problems of the western portion of Lake County.

Addiction group moves to west Lake County

"Demographics are showing us that the western part of Lake County is one of the fastest growing areas in the state," said Judy Fried, NICASA executive director. As the area has grown, so have conditions that are prime for substance abuse—unemployment, single motherhood, and pockets of poverty.

The $1.2 million facility combines the Fox Lake office with the Fighting Back Program (which helps communities formulate anti-drug plans) and administrative functions previously located in Waukegan offices. But NICASA will not diminish the level of services previously offered in east Lake County, Fried said.

NICASA's move also dovetails with the group's moving emphasis from rehabilitation to prevention before trouble occurs, in part by focusing on people—like parents—that have influence on the people that are prone to develop substance abuse problems.

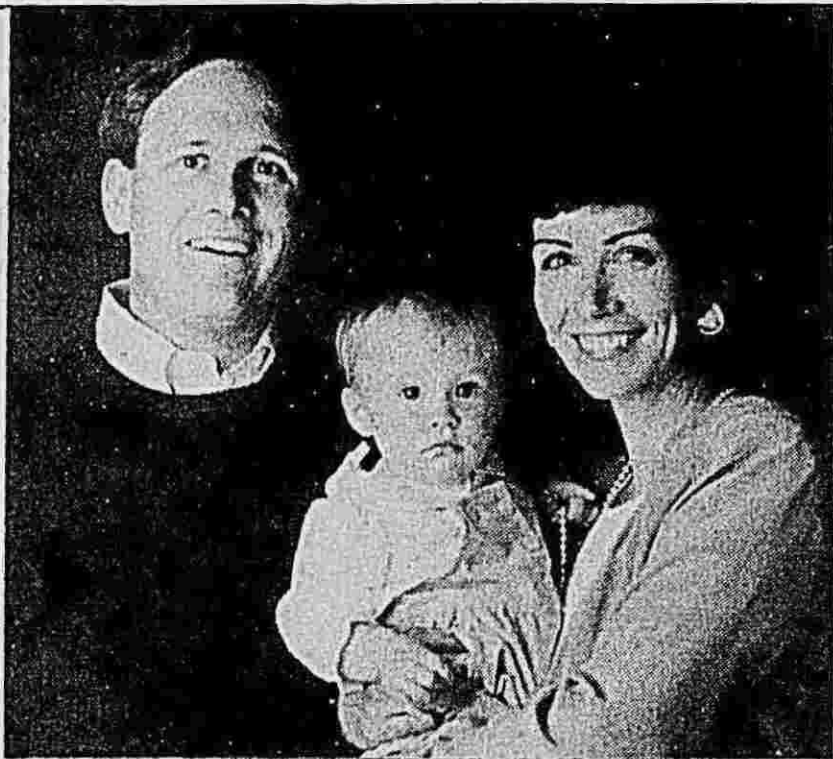

NICASA's recently developed program The Parent Project is based on the assumption that parenting is too tough to try without an instruction manual—or at least advice.

"Who ever taught anyone how to be a parent?" Fried said. "Yet a parent's role in a child's life is the most important."

"An effective parent is the best strategy toward preventing drug abuse," Fried added. "Parents need to learn how to communicate with their child so they can help give them good values, self-esteem and the ability to make healthy choices." The programs teach new parents how their self-respect engenders the children to respect themselves and the parents, Fried said.

The new facility was constructed on seven acres of land donated by nearby Baxter Healthcare Labs. NICASA will offer open houses at the Round Lake building Aug. 26 and 27. For information on the new facility or any NICASA programs, residents may phone 546-6450.

Having a baby at Victory was a wonderful experience for all of us.

When my pregnancy test was positive, we were so excited. Having a baby was a totally new adventure for us and we wanted everything to be perfect. Seeking out lots of good information was important. We needed to make informed choices about our entire birthing experience.

After checking around and interviewing several hospitals, it was clear that Victory was our best choice. Everyone at their New Family Center was so warm and friendly. We learned a lot about pain management and baby care in their childbirth classes. And, we could choose to have our baby in one of their lovely birthing rooms.

I received a great bag of baby gifts from Victory, and my husband and I were treated to a celebration meal in a special dining room.

With my second on the way, I already know that my choice is Victory Memorial Hospital.

Registration begins, school not far behind

by AMY E. PRZYTYLA
Lakeland Newspapers

School books, teachers, and the end of the summer are fast approaching. A tell-tale sign is fall registration.

The Grass Lake School District will register Kindergarten, Special Education and new students on Aug. 12 from 12 p.m. to 7 p.m. and Aug. 13 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"We are expecting 30 to 32 new kindergarten students for two sections," said Dr. Ruth Bill, superintendent of the school.

The school is not expecting to have a large amount of new students pouring into the school. Bill said that the number of students that left the district should equal the amount entering the school.

Students who were enrolled last year in the Grass Lake District had the opportunity to register my mail over the summer.

Kindergarten and fifth-grade students must have a school physical and proof of having the necessary immunizations prior to the first day of school.

All new students must present a birth certificate at the time of registration along with proof of residency in District 36.

"Sometimes we have a problem with new students who really don't know where they will go," said Bill. "We have such a close boundary with District 33."

Registration fees for Kindergarten is $12 and $34 for the milk fee for the entire year. Grades one through five will be charged a $20 fee plus an $11 fee for grades one to three and $5.50 for grades four and five for swimming costs.

The registration fees are used within the classrooms.

"The teachers order student supplies. They get workbooks, extra pencils, paper, and maybe markers," said Bill. "They are extra somethings, not replacing the school supplies the students bring from home."

A complete list of necessary school supplies was handled out at the end of the 91-92 school year. Extra copies will be available at registration.

Classes start on Aug. 25 with an early dismissal on 11:30 a.m. Kindergarten classes start on Aug. 26. Lunch menus will be distributed on the first day of class and will be served on the 26th.

but Millie will take with her a memento of her experience aboard the presidential aircraft, as the bowl was a gift from Pickard China," said Kral.

According to Kral, area residents may take advantage of a rare opportunity to see Millie's bowl first hand in the Pickard Factory Outlet store until Jan. 20. Regular business hours are Monday through Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Pickard, which is the only American manufacturer of fine china that makes its entire product line in the United States and will celebrate its 100th anniversary in 1993, filled the Air Force One contract which called for 100 place settings of china for the rear cabin featuring a 24 karat gold presidential seal and a border of stars and bars in bas-relief on china downsized to fit on airline trays. In addition to the 100 piece rear cabin setting, 12 place settings for presidential use in the front cabin featuring full-size china crested with the presidential seal in 24 karat gold and a ring of cobalt running beside the bold border of stars and bars.

The Antioch china company, which has been at its current location since 1937, has produced the official china services for numerous prestigious government dining rooms. Pickard has also provided the special dinnerware for Camp David, all U.S. Embassies worldwide, U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff at the Pentagon and his U.S. Air Force Wing Commanders, U.S. Navy/Norfolk base commander, and the Blair House, which is the official presidential guest house in Washington D.C.

Craig Gantar produces first in nation

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380

Good accomplishment

Congratulations are in order for Craig Gantar, a 1992 Antioch Community High School graduate. As a student at the Lake County Area Vocation Center (LCAVC), Craig competed in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) held in Springfield and won a first place award in television production.

This achievement qualified Craig to enter the National Convention of VICA held in Louisville, Ky.

Once again, he placed first in television production. Placing first in this competition produced a gold medal for Craig along with the title of being First in the Nation in this particular category. He is the son of Alice and Mike Gantar of Antioch and will be attending the University of Iowa and majoring in Communications. Congratulations, Craig, we are all very proud of you as are your mom and dad.

With August already upon us indicated the area schools will soon re-open their doors to welcome the children back into the classrooms. The lazy days of summer are passing all too quickly, so enjoy the rest of your break time and when that old school bell rings, get down to the business of learning.

August not only means that school is just around the corner, it also means it is time for another world famous (well, at least Antioch famous) monthly birthday greeting Lizard style. Happy August birthdays to Ray Brausam, Tami Edelman, Judy Fechtner, Barbara Philips, Christine Foerster, Kristin Franzen, Steven Franzen, Shahnaz Hansen, Nina Hurmis, Bobby Klean, Ben Knutson-Stolarik, John Lass, Raymond Liss, Paige Majewski, Chris Marquart, Danny Marsich, Marlene Olsen, Jr., Donna Schmehl, Matt Vogel and Alicia Wojtowicz.

What a garden

There are gardens and then there are gardens. On a recent Thursday morning garage sailing exhibition with two of my "pals," we happened to drive down a neighborhood road and saw Frank Walsh, Sr. out tending his beautiful garden. We honked our horn, he glanced up, meandered over to the van and poked his head in the window offering his usual amount of friendly, witty, conversation.

During the course of our chance meeting, he mentioned he had a recent birthday. If any "radar" was properly in tune, I owe him a happy belated July 5 birthday wish. He also mentioned his slightly advancing age, but that will remain "top secret." As he chatted with us, he illuded to the fact that he knew he was getting on in years and only his marker knew how much longer he would be around.

Well, Frank, by the looks of that gorgeous garden and realizing the hours and energies required to maintain it so perfectly, I would say we will be enjoying many, many more years of friendly, neighborly chats. As usual your wit brightened up my day. Sorry I missed your birthday. Hope I calculated the right date and happy belated birthday from Lizard and reader. Say hi to Margaret!

American Dream lives on for Ukrainian family

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

It was Nicholas Vojak's dream to be reunited with his younger brother someday, who had been caught in the clutches of the Iron Curtain.

Vojak's dream finally became a reality after some 51 years of waiting on July 18 at 7 p.m. when Gregory and his daughter Ludmilla arrived at O'Hare International after a long journey from the new independent Republic of Ukraine.

But that dream soon turned to tears for the Vojak family after Vojak's health deteriorated when a deep cough became a severe case of pneumonia.

Nicholas Vojak died on August 1, just 11 days after he saw his brother for the first time since the Germans sent him to the work camp at Nuremberg during the height of World War II.

"My father thought that his dream might never come true," said Olga Demski, Vojak's daughter. "But once Gregory came to America, my father and him just spend 11 days talking and carrying on to all hours. Now, my mother is taking it real hard because my father will no longer be with her."

According to Demski, her father's incredible life began when the German Army took him and the rest of the Ukrainian men from their homes and families in a small town near Ternopol, and displaced them to Germany as slaves to the Third Reich.

"My father was the oldest of seven children and they all looked up to him," said Demski. "After his father left to fight the Germans as a member of the Russian Army, he was the man of the family."

But all was not tragic in Nuremberg, for Vojak met his bride to be, Halina, while serving at the work camp.

When the war ended, it only took the young couple eight days to get married, which left Vojak in quite a dilemma. He needed to find a job so he could feed his new bride and himself while they stayed in the American sector of Germany during the occupation period following the war.

Vojak used his gift of charisma to his advantage and became the valet to an Army captain stationed in Germany for the occupation.

"He cleaned shoes and other odd jobs to bring us food," said Halina Vojak. "He would have done anything."

Vojak did such a great job as the valet of the captain, who spoke Polish in order to communicate with the Vojak's, that an offer for them to go the United States when the Army left Germany was given to them.

Vojak refused because he did not know anything about America and was afraid to travel such a great distance on just a hunch.

"So my parents moved to Belgium and my father worked in a coal mine for six years," said Demski, who was born in Belgium in 1949.

After earning some money and security, the Vojak's received a sponsor offer from a friend who was a Ukrainian native living in Chicago. The Vojak's then bought tickets on a luxury liner and sailed to Port Huron, Mich., and then took a train to Chicago to meet their sponsors.

"My mother was frightened by how dirty the city was and wanted to go home, but my father told her it would be okay and that they would make it," said Demski. "They arrived in America with two suitcases and the equivalent of $5 in their wallet. It's amazing what they accomplished."

Vojak, who knew no English when he met the Army Captain, earned an electrical engineering degree from Devry Technical Institute after working several hard labor jobs to support his family.

The Vojak's moved to Lindenhurst in 1974 after Demski got married.

As for Vojak's dream, it lives on in the memories of his family and the new experiences of his brother and his niece, who remain in the United States for the time being.

"Maybe my uncle will sell his livestock and bring his wife to America," said Demski. "They have just been fascinated since they got here. My uncle told me that he feels like he has lived here his whole life."

And that fascination continues in the stores that Ludmilla and Gregory have gone to since they arrived.

"The first time they went into Walmart and Omni, they began to cry when they saw all that was for sale," said Demski. "They had been lied to their whole lives about America and now they are angry about what is not offered back home."

The dream continues for the Vojak family, who celebrated the arrival of Nicholas Vojak's brother, Gregory, on July 18 after being separated for 51 years by the Iron Curtain. Perot followers keep hope alive

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Ross Perot is alive, well and still a major political figure, as far as his Illinois followers are concerned. Earlier this week they filed 100,000 signatures to get his name on the November ballot. This is four times the number needed.

Hundreds of those signers live in Lake County.

Disappointed their man is no longer an active candidate for president, they have organized as United We Stand. The Illinois contingent is organized all the way from the state to the county level.

Lake County followers will meet Saturday, Aug. 8, at the Warren-Newport Library, 224 N. O'Plaine Rd., Gurnee, at 10 a.m. Discussed will be the national and Illinois movement. Played will be a tape of the state meeting in Springfield on Aug. 2 following the filing of the Perot signatures.

"We're going full force," said Betty J. Root of Gurnee, chairperson of the movement in the 8th and 10th congressional districts. She said Perot is giving United We Stand emotional support and legal counsel. "And if we need money to publicize some political wrong doing in the state, that will come, too," she said.

"Perot is financing this groundswell in every state," Root said in contrast to statements to the contrary in the daily press. "He has the same feelings as we do about a grass roots movement."

That movement hopes to "return America to Americans, restore the United States as the No. 1 country in the world and take our country out of the hands of the politicians and give it back to the people," Root said.

"We plan to be a factor in this election," Root said. This is in contrast to what Perot is quoted as saying.

One reason Perot gave for dropping his presidential bid was to avoid the possibility of the final presidential selection being thrown into the House of Representatives.

But not according to Root. "We have an option," she said. "Both President George Bush and Democratic candidate Bill Clinton will be presented a list of criteria. If they don't sign off on them (in return for member support) we will do something else."

"No one knows what that might be," Root admits. "Things can change a lot between now and election day. We're not going to let up."

One thing that won't change is Root's firebrand philosophy. A divorced regional sales manager of computer hardware and software for the petroleum industry, she was born and raised in Chicago.

"We're mad as hell," Root said several times. "You bet I'm fired up. This country needs changing. We're going to keep a fire under the politicians this election."

"They haven't kept faith with us," she said of the people voters send to Washington. "The huge machine has engulfed us. There are 10-million unhappy people out there.

"Millions of people are out of work," Root continued. "Our economy and whole country is going down hill. Children aren't being properly educated. There are millions of homeless. The American dream has gone down the tubes. We're going to work to bring it back."

Root hinted the grass-roots movement will "take on everyone from the dog catcher on up." But, for the moment, its collective eyes are on the presidential race.

A June cover story on Perot labeled him "The Quitter." He is anything but that, if you believe Root and his Lake County followers.

In addition to Illinois, his name will be on the November ballot in about 35 other states. All are organized to varying degrees.

Those in other states say they will not tell voters to cast November ballots for Perot as a protest against the two-party system. Aides to Perot say he has agreed to this movement to avoid disenfranchising those who supported his presidential candidacy.

Council seeks members for Disabilities Services

The Lake County Advisory Board and Coordinating Council for Mental Health, Substance Abuse and Developmental Disabilities Services (AB/C Council) is seeking new members. Lake County residents with knowledge or interest in the continuing development of community services in the three disability areas are encouraged to apply.

The AB/C Council makes every attempt to appoint members who collectively represent the county's broad spectrum of geographic, social and economic interests, as well as represent consumers, their advocates and service providers in each disability area.

The AB/C Council advises the Lake County Board of Health in the areas of mental health, substance abuse and developmental disabilities services. The council is responsible for the on-going planning and coordination of these services countywide.

Interested persons should call Gin Fagen, AB/C Council coordinator, (708)360-6704, or address inquiries to the AB/C Council office at 3012 Grand Ave., Waukegan, IL 60085.

The council develops a comprehensive plan for mental health, substance abuse and developmental disabilities services in Lake County. Following board of health approval of the plan, the council works with others in the community to see that it is implemented.

The council also receives and reviews proposals for board of health community grants to local agencies. These grants provide support to agencies assisting in implementation of the three-year plan for services.

Through these efforts, the council helps assure that state and local funding is secured and used by community agencies and organizations to address the priority needs of Lake County citizens.

Immeasurable loss

One of Lake County's most remarkable business stories in history likely will have its final chapter written with the closing Oct. 1 of the Komatsu Dresser plant in Libertyville.

Reeling from the effects of a wobbly economy and trying to restructure a compensation package with an unfriendly union, Komatsu has issued a closure order that will mean the loss of 200 jobs for what amounts to a standby work force at the once mighty manufacturing facility.

What remains today are the remnants of a company founded some 50 years ago by the late Frank G. Hough, an engineering genius and enterprising businessman who turned the materials handling industry on its ear with a front-end loader designed and built by Lake Countians. With a product line ranging from loaders the size of garden tractors to semi-trailer trucks, Hough "Payloaders" were shipped to the far-corners of the world.

At its height and continued with successor International Harvester, the plant started in a former candy company with a handful of employees grew to thousands who were housed in buildings stretched along Rte. 176 east of Libertyville. The work force, both management and production personnel, was drawn from the immediate vicinity. Getting a job at the Hough Co. was virtually a ticket to lifetime security. The founder was affectionately called "Pappy" by his employees. Few companies ever were tied in as tightly into the social fabric of the community as Hough.

Libertyville officials are reacting gamely to the closure decision, pointing out that the community will escape serious economic impact. Probably so. Fortunately, the county economy still is strong. Two hundred jobs is a blip.

The closure, though, in human terms and memories will be enormous. Thousands of workers at Hough and the successor companies paid off mortgages and put kids through college, enjoying a high standard of living from their earnings derived at the sprawling plant producing equipment so successful that it became a generic name in the construction industry.

Now the final ties to that once proud endeavor, the Payloader family, are being severed, resulting in a loss that can't be measured.

Motives questioned

Democrats in Lake County are starting to warm up to environmentalism as a viable campaign issue for the fall election. Their new found awareness could have a significant impact in balloting for the County Board.

What is attracting their attention is the planned extension of Rte. 53 through central Lake County, which will impact negatively on 2,800 acres of wetlands, and new Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT) proposals to shift the route away from environmentally sensitive areas and closer to existing homes.

Either way, the Democrats have a good issue. The surprise is that it's taken them so long to hop on the environmental bandwagon. County Democratic Chairman Terry Link is calling IDOT Republican-controlled as an example of his party's strong talk.

Whether the Democratic interest in local environmental issues is sincere or merely campaign dressing remains to be seen. On environmental issues coming before the County Board since the last election, most Board Democrats regularly have voted with the Republican majority against environmental questions, especially those relating to Forest Preserve land acquisition matters.

If they were serious, Democrats on the County Board could have joined with independent Republicans to save open space designations. They didn't. Now their motives are suspect. And rightly so.

Horse pull detracts from fun at fair

by MARY K. ELLIS

It's fair time again! Time to revel in sights and sounds and smells unique to the county fair! Cotton candy and hamburgers, merry-go-rounds and Ferris wheels, farm animals and grains, cakes and quilts and preserves! A kaleidoscope of joy for young and old!

How good it is that the rural aspects of our county have not been obliterated by urban sprawl-yet.

It is good that the county fair still exists to provide a pleasurable not know about horse pulls, they are events conducted to determine which team of horses can pull the heaviest weights over a given distance. Horses are often forced to pull loads in excess of their capabilities. Frequently, their legs collapse under the strain.

These horses must compete, no matter how high the temperature and may be deprived of water for several hours before a contest so that they can qualify for lighter weight classes. This "shrinking" practice is often carried out during intensely hot, humid weather, when animals need water most.

To train these "circuit" horses the trainers use whips, boards and clubs, even electrical currents from tractor batteries to teach the horses to lunge forward with the power necessary to pull a load.

Today's horse pull participants are not farmers. They may be truckers, contractors or business men who buy already trained mature stock and haul them from state to state, contest to contest, solely for this work. Civilized people are revolted by such commercialized cruelty which in no way benefits agriculture or horses.

It is to be hoped that future fair programs will eliminate such sadism. Letters to our Fair Board will be helpful.

Editor's note: Mary Ellis, a resident of Deerfield, speaks and writes about animal rights issues from time to time.

Stock tables crowding out baseball stats

by BILL SCHROEDER

Baseball hasn't been as much fun since team owners became faceless corporations, a gaggle of limited partnerships or bean counters in some accounting office.

I got to thinking about this other day as I contemplated the rank treatment the Cubs handed Andre Dawson, a dignified and talented athlete who arguably is the best rightfielder in the history of the franchise.

Maybe a flesh and blood owner like a P.K. Wrigley, a Tom Yawke or a Connie Mack could plead financial embarrassment or being a few mil short at the moment. But when Chairman of the Board Stanton R. Cook pleads poor mouth, he the spokesman for a mega corporation holding daily newspapers, tv stations, radio stations, paper mills and umpteen other interests, you have a laughable situation. Yeh, sure, Stan. Things are kinda of tough.

Personal pride would prevent owners like Augie Busch and even skin flints like Clark Griffith and Lou Comiskey from turning their back on a quality act like Andre Dawson who on the day he got stiffed by the Cubs had 54 runs batted in, 15 homers, 15 doubles, 39 runs scored among his other accomplishments.

But the corporate honcho told Andre---to his face---the bucks ain't available for a contract extension. "Other financial constraints," is the way Cook probably put it.

Oh, Andre could probably come back with his hat in his hand after all the free agent and expansion stuff has played out, and become a Cub again, like when he offered them a blank check to join the team. But would he stoop twice?

What can you expect, though, when pizza makers are about to swap a team or Japanese investors weighted down with cash-laden attache cases become major league owners?

Baseball is all spread sheets and legal eagles these days. Your favorite team has become just another business enterprise. Once you get into it, reading the stock tables every day is a lot more exciting than finding out in the sports pages the latest board room gambit.

OFF TO HOUSTON---Bill Fawcett, the science fiction writer from Lake Zurich who helped create the famous Road to the White House board game, will be in Houston during the Republican national convention to do promotional work. Good spot for a sci fi writer. Bill is going to report some of his impressions for Lakeland Newspapers.

CHASTISED---Debbie Tronrud scolded this column for making light of Schaumburg efforts to establish a local history. Debbie explained that St. Peter's Lutheran Church in the heart of Schaumburg has been in existence more than 140 years. That's a long time and certainly St. Peter's has a good bit of history all its own. We thought we were talking to a died-in-the-wool Schaumburger until Tronrud revealed that she lives in Hawthorn Woods.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY---After a lapse of 50 years, the Schroeder family reunion renewal was rated a huge success with two exceptions---a downpour that chased the early arrivals inside and this scribe's memory blank about slicing the watermelon. Uncle John regaled the younger generation with yarns about farming and gravel digging on the family homestead where Marriott's Lincolnshire now stands. Cousin Jeanne brought genealogical updates from her home in Texas. There was horseshoe pitching, boat riding, address exchanging and the traditional group photo. Pretty typical reunion fare, but no fried chicken. Everyone decided not to wait another 50 years for the next get-together.

Helmets save lives

Editor:

Over 500,000 people are hurt in bicycle accidents each year throughout the country, including communities like ours. And surprising, more than half of all bicycle-related deaths happen to people 21 and older. As more bicyclists take to the road during the summer, I would like to stress the importance of bicycle safety, from bicycle selection to maintenance to helmet use.

The Libertyville Liberty Mutual office would like to remind everyone that helmets save lives and prevent nearly 85 percent of head injuries. However, less than 10 percent of our nation's 85 million bicyclists use helmets. Select a helmet with a safety with a safety certification sticker from the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) and/or the Snell Memorial Foundation, which have tested and set minimum safety standards that should be followed.

Suit had no merit

Editor:

The Avon town board did not drop the suit against former Supervisor Norm Geary. Judge Michael Sullivan agreed with the unanimous opinion of the Appellate court judges and threw it out of court because the suit had no merit!

As a citizen and taxpayer of Avon Twp., I have followed this case for the past three years with frustration and disgust. The fact that this group of elected officials could spend our tax dollars on this ridiculous suit, after they knowingly violated the very article of the State Constitution they charged Mr. Geary with (Continued on next page) opportunity for city dwellers to get acquainted with their neighbors on the farm.

Long Grove is the caricature of the "hayseed" farmer. Today's farmers are progressive knowledgeable citizens, who with their wives, possess special skills and "know how," vital to us all.

The program of the Lake County Fair this year had an event which in 1992, is totally out of place. The "horse pull" is an anachronism, a stupid mindless spectacle unworthy of Lake County audiences.

Our county is not the backwoods, where life is hard and drab, where thoughtless, unfeeling exploitation of animals might provide a certain kind of barbaric, primitive amusement.

violating, infuriates me!

By the way, whatever happened to the legal opinion our courageous states attorney referred to the Attorney General's office regarding this town boards action, raising the town clerk's salary during her term of office? Do we just forget that now or does some other citizen have to spend his money to get this board to comply with the law?

I admit I am not entirely blameless, as I didn't think the township elections made any difference and didn't take the time to vote! I'll definitely take time next April.

Women in leadership

Editor:

For nearly every man in World War I who endured the dangers and hardships of camp, ship and battlefield, there was a woman serving at home to help attain American victory.

After the war had been won the men banded together to form the American Legion. Naturally, the women, in their desire to continue to serve with them, followed with the American Legion Auxiliary. Hand-in-hand, they continue to serve in the rehabilitation of disabled veterans, children and youth activities and community service.

For the second time in the history of the 10th district a lady commander, LaVerne Brady, a U.S. Navy Veteran, will take over leadership of the 22 posts in the district. The district consists of the posts in Antioch, Barrington, Deerfield, Fox Lake, Grayslake, Gurnee, Highwood, Highland Park, Island Lake, Lake Bluff, Lake Zurich, Lake County Women, Lake Villa, Libertyville, Mundelein, North Chicago, Prairie View, Round Lake, Wauconda, Waukegan and Zion. LaVerne has served as commander of Gurnee Post, president of Gurnee Auxiliary and director of Tenth District Auxiliary.

For the first time in the history of Tenth District, a commander's daughter Sandra Nys, will be installed as District president. She will preside over the 18 Auxiliary units in the district. Sandy is past president of Gurnee Auxiliary and has served previously as district president.

Songs do not kill

Editor:

This letter is in response to a letter to the editor about the Body Count Album. Body Count is a heavy metal band. The album was produced by ICE-T and ERNIE C. The album came out in March, 1992! The band toured. Police were present during some of the performances; they often show up when a rapper is present. There was no comment from anyone.

The police who brutalized Rodney King were exonerated. Riots occurred in Los Angeles. Many people all over the United States realized that some thing was wrong here. Police harassment and brutality are common in our country. It is a social problem that everyone needs addressing. The words that begin "Cop Killer" are: "For every cop that has ever taken advantage of somebody, beat them down or hurt them, because they've got long hair, listen to the wrong kind of music, wrong color, whatever they thought was the reason to do it..."

It is a song. No police have been killed as a result of this song. Emphasis on guns, crime and brutality in our movies and TV are very common. People who have been harassed and brutalized by the police should be standing outside the Time-Warner meetings or headquarters backing the album Body Count and the song Cop Killer.

The question that should be asked is: Why all of this fuss three months after the album came out? Who started it? Who is spreading it? You can be assured that Quayle and Bush had never heard of Body Count and the song Cop Killer.

Listen to Body Count if you haven't heard the album. You might learn more about some problems we have in our country. You will hear some good music and excellent front man. We allegedly live in a free country therefore you don't have to buy the album or listen to it but let the rest of us have freedom of choice!

proud. I have lived in Grayslake now for over three years. Through various coaching positions, substitute teaching in Dist. 46 and at the Grayslake Community High School, and in my position as a youth pastor at Gages Lake Bible Church, I have gotten to know many of the local young people very well.

Not only are the Grayslake teens from my youth group, Youth Inc. involved in summer service as reported elsewhere in this issue, but others are as well, such as Kathy Tischio who is participating in an overseas exchange program this summer.

As youth pastor, I am proud of these young people. But they are not entirely our church's. We share them with you and encourage you to ask them about their summers when they return.

Carol (the myth) comes to town

CAROL THE MYTH

Carol Moseley Braun. Almost everyone in our state knows that name. She's running for the U.S. Senate as a Democrat. As far as the Democrats are concerned, she's their ticket to success in November.

She's getting so much free press her ads are almost none existent. When she does show it is to tell about her poor, deprived, abused childhood. Republican opponent Rich Williamson thinks this is style is a deliberate attempt to build a Ross Perot myth around her.

A fax a week hints at this. They are filled with "I love/am Carol Moseley Braun" platitudes.

Last week I called the Braun camp to find out what was really going on. I was connected with a sharp press agent named David Eichenbaum. He seemed to know New York better than Illinois.

"When is she coming to Lake County?" I asked.

"Sometime in August."

"Can I meet and interview her?" I asked.

"Sure. When you get a fax saying she is going to be in Lake County, call me and we'll see about hooking up."

OK, Dave. But what if Williamson gets here first, without begging?

I did learn Braun will be in Lake County Sunday, Aug. 23, for a full day of rallies, appearances and a dinner. Maybe then we'll see if the myth is for real.

It will be her first foray into Lake County since a brief North Chicago appearance just before last March's primary.

PEROT PEOPLE RALLY

Ex presidential candidate Ross Perot, called "The Quitter" by Newsweek, is alive and well in Illinois.

His name will be on the November ballot thanks to 100,000 signatures filed this week.

Helping to make sure Perot is not a forgotten man is Betty J. Root of Gurnee. She is chairperson of the 8th and 10th congressional districts for the United We Stand movement. With Perot's blessing and some financial help, it wants to put his name on the fall ballot in 35 states.

Local loyalists can learn more on Saturday, Aug. 8, at a 10 a.m. meeting in the Warren-Newport Library, 224 O'Plaine Rd., Gurnee. Aired will be a tape of a state meeting in Springfield following the filing of ballot signatures on Aug. 2.

"We're mad as hell and not going to take it any more," Root said of professional politicians and their empty promises.

DEMOCRATIC PRIDE

If you haven't heard of Terry Link, you soon will. He is the first-term chairman of the Lake County Democratic party who wants to shake things up.

The name was a familiar one during Lake County fair week. Credit his daughter, Kelly Marie, the Miss Waukegan entry in the fair queen contest. Dad was proud as punch.

He has been ever since a mid-July weekend when she was crowned. That one started off bad for the government contract specialist at Johnson Controls in Arlington Heights. Link lost a million dollar contract.

Then there was the politics. Things didn't go so good with the party. Link wasn't in the best of moods.

"Then, I found out my daughter won the Miss Waukegan contest," he said. "I was so pleased. I forgot anything else happened that weekend. I guess, first of all, I'm a father. Then a politician."

No, Link isn't the father of a fair queen. That title went to Miss Libertyville. But Kelly is still No. 1 with dad.

MIKE IS VISIBLE

Mike Kennedy is alive and well, says county Democratic Party Chairman Terry Link.

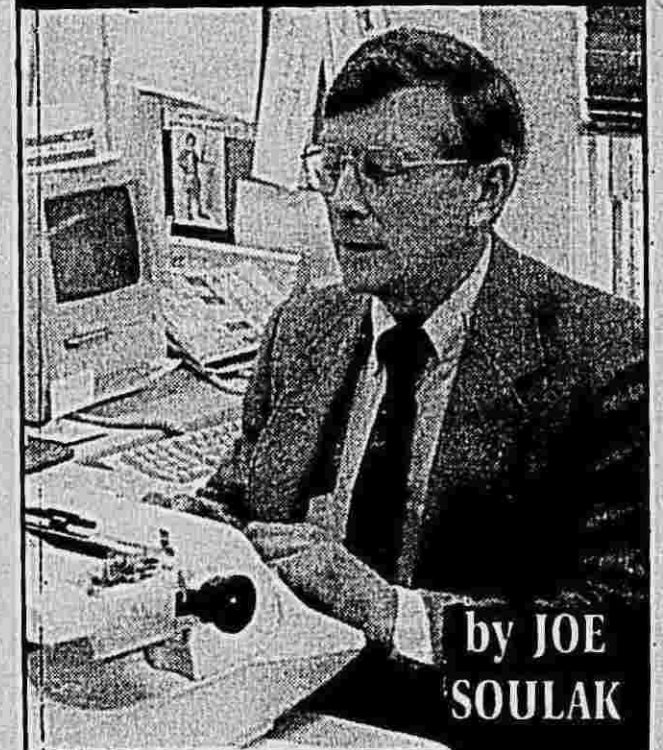

Contrary to what I was told, Kennedy was in both the June Libertyville Days parade and this week's Lake Forest Days parade. He also was highly visible at last week's Lake County Fair.

Who's Mike Kennedy? The Democratic alternative to Congressman John Porter in the 10th Dist. this fall. The young, energetic Lake Forest attorney wants to be our man in Washington.

United Way of Lake County recruits campaign cabinet

United Way of Lake County General Campaign Chairman, Stephen K. Smurthwaite of Abbott Laboratories, has recruited volunteers to serve on the Campaign Cabinet for the 1992 campaign.

"This year we need to raise $6,867,388. This figure literally represents the minimum amount needed to ensure that human service needs in Lake County are satisfied," said Smurthwaite. "And the success of our campaign is dependent on the volunteers we recruit, so we've really been searching for those en-

Don't look us in the mouth

Hi! I would like to say something to the snobs of Antioch, Grayslake, and the surrounding communities that like to cut down Round Lake. Where do you go to shop? Round Lake is a great little town and we have a lot to offer. We don't have any snobs here either. It is a really comfortable place to live. Thanks.

Play ball!

The parents of the Avon Township A's T-ball team would like to thank the volunteers for such a great season. Thanks a lot.

Liquor shouldn't be taxed

Hi, I am calling from Grayslake and I work at a liquor store. It really makes me mad that the President wants to put another tax on alcoholic beverages. I have not had a raise in over four years and he does not realize that every time that he does that, some more people are out of work. I would like to be able to make it, at least $5 an hour. It doesn't seem like it is ever going to happen because every time he raises taxes, less people buy liquor. Bye.

Too many garbage trucks

I've lived in Round Lake and in the past years, our water bills have grown sky high. What the people of Round Lake don't know is that since the water bills have gone sky high, we have four garbage trucks. When you put two garbage bags out, they will pick that up. If you put two cans out, they will pick that up. Put an old chair out there and they will pick that up. Put your recycling bins out there and they will pick that up. So during garbage day on Monday, I will have four garbage trucks stopping by my house. I hope that they will do away with the trucks and just have one truck stop by to pick up my things. That way the water bills will go down. Thank you very much.

Love your parents

Hello, I am from Wildwood and I would like to respond to the call "Where are your kids?" I think that I really feel for her. Who knows who will cling to their parents? I know that I cling to my parents, not cling, but enjoy their company. There are both retiring and moving out of the area. That would be very sad for me. But, I have a brother who already moved out of the area who seems like he could really care less if he sees them or not. I don't understand that. But, I hope that your kids read your article and mine and realize that they are really missing out on a lot of things if they don't include you in their everyday life. I see my parents during the week and if they move away, that is going to be financially hard on me, but at least I will still talk to them. It is important to me and to them. Wake up! Thank you.

Not lazy, just sick

Hi, I am calling from Round Lake and I would like to respond to the person that thinks that they have a cure for the welfare system. Well, I don't agree with anything that was said. Yes, there are help wanted ads but what about the people who can't work. My mother was divorced when I was in the third grade. My father left. Because of her health, she could not get a job and had to go on welfare. If my mother would have worked, she would have been dead at the end of the year. The lazy don't deserve the money, but the people that aren't healthy do. Don't assume that all welfare people are lazy. Thank you.

Puppy should be admitted

Hi, I have a complaint. My nephew called and invited me to his All-Star game, which obviously meant a lot to him. So, I drove a half hour to the game and brought my 4-month-old puppy. And we were told that dogs were not allowed. He was very well behaved and on a leash and on the bleachers next to me when we were escorted off the field. I just have a problem with having family events like that and not allowing pets. If he had been rambunctious or hurting people, I think that it would have been another story, but he wasn't. Thanks a lot. I appreciate there being a place where I can get this off my chest. Bye-bye.

Power line not politicians

Yeah, I am just getting really sick of these politicians complaining about the power line going through Lake Villa and Lindenhurst. If this power line was coming through to provide a General Motors assembly plant in Antioch, all of the politicians would be on the bandwagon and the people living along the railroad would be squashed. There would be no opposition. They would be trying to get this power line in. This power line would benefit a lot of people. We would have better service. There is only 1 or 2 percent that don't want the line. Thank you.

Music critique

Yeah, I am just calling to say that I think that rap music is the worst music ever produced. Uh, I feel that it takes no talent to mumble rhyming words really fast. I mean, for all the people who like it, try some real music like Nine Inch Nails.

Firsthand lesson on welfare

Hi, I'd like to respond to the person that called about the welfare system. They must not have never been on welfare. They said that they should take all of the money and put a down payment on a house. Welfare does not give you enough money to live and too much money to die. Wake up and smell the roses. I am a former welfare recipient from Mundelein. Thank you.

Stoplight needed

I am calling about a stop and go light that is necessary at the corner of 83 and Monaville Road. The traffic there is a big concern. I don't know how many lives are going to be taken before something is done. It is dangerous, especially during school. It is too hard to pull out onto 83. My concern is for the new housing that will add even more traffic. Thank you.

I will not pay, parents should

Hello, the parents of the children who vandalized the Round Lake school should be responsible for all of the

Hose firm connects county to manufacturers

by HEATHER McDONALD
Lakeland Newspapers

Most young kids want to grow up and become a fireman, or doctor. But not Jon Walleck. He wanted to be hose-man.

"I've been interested in hose distribution since I was in high school," the 27-year-old said.

Jon used to work for a distributor in Oak Grove Village with his partners; brother Jeff, and brother-in-law, Leon Davis. One day when the threesome was fishing, they were discussing business. With 25-years experience between the three of them, they thought it might be time to try it for themselves.

More importantly, they wanted people to have the option of buying directly from Lake County.

Voila, Midwest Hose and Fittings, Inc., 1840 Industrial Dr., unit 170, off of Peterson in Libertyville, was born.

"We saw a need up here for what we do," Leon said. "And we're the only source that deals directly with the manufacturers," Jon added.

"Most companies dealing with direct distributors go to Cook County," said Jon. "But we're local so the product is more easily accessible at a good price."

Jon, Jeff and Leon pride themselves on their service. They will sell anywhere in the midwest, and will supply their clients with any hose or fitting product, from Waterhead hoses to valves and swivel joints.

"We've had clients referred to us by competitors because they don't have a product," said Jeff. "They know we do, and if we don't, we can get it fast."

Not only does Midwest Hose offer competitive pricing, they also have walk-in-service so the customer can come in with a hose and have it cut to a specific size in about 10 minutes. Midwest Hose also offers an on-site-problem-solving program.

"We know we've got to offer good service because if we don't, someone else will," Jeff said.

Although the company opened in January, Jeff said the growth of clientele is increasing every month. Part of that is because Jon and Leon make sales calls and go door to door to other businesses. They also give out catalogs and price sheets.

But despite their large stock of inventory, the partners know that word of mouth is the best way to get clients, and that goes back to service.

"If they need it today, we'll get it today," said Jeff. "The customer is the most important."

Customer satisfaction is their game, and if that means buying a product and selling to the client at a low margin, they will do it.

"Whatever it takes to make the customer happy."

For more information, call Midwest Hose and Fittings, Inc., Libertyville, at 816-7558, or fax an order at 816-1801.

Komatsu Dresser warns of October closing

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Komatsu Dresser Co., which is based in Libertyville and is the nation's second largest heavy machine equipment manufacturer, told its 200 employees last week that it will close its local plant if the United Auto Workers cannot come up with pay concessions soon.

According to the Komatsu Dresser announcement, the plant will close on Oct. 1, due to increased inventories caused by a sluggish economy. Komatsu Dresser has failed to earn a profit since 1990.

James Mezera, Komatsu Dresser vice president, believes that the final decision to close the plant has not been made yet, but added if the plant does close, it would remain closed for at least two years or until the economy improves enough to eliminate the company's large surplus of inventory.

The 200 employees' slim ray of hope though, could be eliminated by a union which so far has refused to give into Komatsu Dresser's latest demands.

According to David Barker, president of the local chapter of the United Auto Workers, Komatsu Dresser plans to force the union into a contract agreement that would be much lower than if the company just threatened to lay off employees.

Part of the dispute stems from last November's contract talks which saw the union strike for three days before returning to work after agreeing to the company's final offer, which included a wage freeze, trimmed pay for new employees, lowered pension benefits and increased the employee's health-care contributions.

The workers, according to Barker, have the most to lose from a plant closing because most of his workers average 24 years of service in the Libertyville plant and most will find it impossible to find a similar job with similar pay and benefits.

The Libertyville plant is one of several Komatsu Dresser plants in the Americas, which began 4 years ago as a joint venture between Komatsu Ltd., and Dresser Industries Inc., of Dallas. Komatsu Dresser's largest competition is Caterpillar Inc., which owns 36 percent of the heavy-duty construction equipment market.

Komatsu Dresser gained access to the former International Harvester plant in 1988 after the Chicago based company left the construction manufacturing business.

As the economy slowed in 1990, the Japanese-American joint venture began to slash production and closed plants in Ohio and Brazil as Komatsu Dresser's market share dipped to 18 percent after climbing to high of 20 percent in 1988.

New construction equipment, like this piece of road construction equipment in use on the Rte. 137 lane widening project in Libertyville, could stop rolling off the assembly line at the Komatsu Dresser plant in Libertyville on Oct. 1 if union and company officials cannot agree on wage concessions soon. Firm to combine 3 area operations

Vernon Hills—Three area auto-supply operations will be combined under one big roof in Vernon Hills with the completion of a construction project set for Nov. 30. Construction is underway in Vernon's Corporate Woods for a new headquarters for ZF Industries, based in Lincolnshire. Gurnee Mills has room yet to grow

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Gurnee Mills calls itself the nation's third largest discount shopping mall. That it is. And it is a growing success.

Spread across 362 acres in Gurnee, it attracted 14.8 million visitors in its first year as of Aug. 8. That's an average of 285,000 visitors a week. They spent about $350 million.

The 1.7-million square foot Gurnee Mills generates sales of $275 to $300 per square foot. Some have sales up to $1,000 per square foot. The industry average is $163.

Western Development Corp. calls Gurnee Mills as much a tourist attraction as a shopping experience. Patterned on the firm's almost-as-large discount mall in Potomac Mills near Washington, D.C., it offers something for everyone from shopping and food to entertainment for all ages.

There are larger malls. Until Gurnee

Mills is fully leased, it is second to the Saugus Mills off-price mall in Florida. It soon will be eclipsed by the world's largest, the Mall of America, in suburban St. Paul, Minn., which will open shortly. But it is regarded as a more traditional mall without the large number of discounters like Gurnee Mills.

Largest or third largest, Gurnee Mills seems to have it all. Anchors include Sears Outlet, Spiegel Outlet, Marshalls, Filene's Basement, MCO-Macy's Close-out and Phar Mor. A Sak's Clearing House. will be the 10th anchor.

There are specialty stores like Bugle Boy, Ann Taylor Clearance, Jonathon Logan, London Fog, American Tourister, Florsheim Shoe, Levis, Corning Revere and Camelot Music.

Surrounding the mall are Sam's Club, McDonald's Taco Bell, Toys 'R' Us, Target, Baker's Square, Sizzler, Comfort Inn, Marriott's Fairfield Inn and NBD Bank. Future tenants include a car wash, Pizza Hut and White Castle.

Occupancy of the mall was 72 percent when it opened. That has since risen. But there still are soon only 10 anchors where there is space for 13.

When it opened the mall had 152 stores. In the intervening year it added 45 new tenants for a total of 197 for an 85 percent occupancy rate. There is room for 230. Mall officials hope for 95 percent occupancy by the end of this year. They hope this will happen despite a dismal retailing climate.

Gurnee Mills employs 4,000 people full and part time. The Illinois Dept. of Employment Security has an on-site facility to interview as many as 175 prospective employees per day.

"People don't come here to spend hours hunting for and buying one item," said an occasional visitor to Gurnee Mills. "This is a place where you spend both time and money." It is easy to spend six to eight hours browsing, buying or relaxing for the next foray along another corridor of stores.

Where do they come from? About 80 percent are from Illinois. Another 15 percent are from Wisconsin and the rest from outlying areas as far away as Iowa.

While traditional shopping centers draw 80 percent of their customers from a 12-mile radius, Gurnee Mills attracts almost half from more than 20 miles away.

Gurnee Mills hasn't caught on with Wisconsin shoppers, said The Milwaukee Journal. They go to the closer 110-store Factory Outlet Centre with its Carter's, Sony, Company Store or others and the nearby Lakeside Market Place. The 76 designer outlet stores at Lakeside range from Liz Claiborne and Calvin Klein to Mikasa, Nike and Magnavox.

Whereas Gurnee Mills is a shopping excursion, going to the Outlet Centre or Lakeside can be either a shopping trip or a visit.

Gurnee Mills tax gold mine

Gurnee Mills has been good for the state, the county and, even, Gurnee. So says Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton.

"It has meant revenue for all of these entities, but it has also kept a lot of shopping dollars here in Illinois. Gurnee Mills has also created a lot of jobs."

Gurnee, which has a total annual budget of $6.4 million, received $1.75 million in taxes from sales from August 1991 through April 1992. By next year, when Gurnee Mills is expected to be fully leased, projections are for this figure to be $5.2 million.

The village gets one cent of every dollar in sales.

In the same period the state received $9 million—a nickle for every dollar spent. This is expected to rise to $25 million by the year 1995.

Both figures are close to original projections when Gurnee Mills was first mentioned several years ago.

In addition there are property taxes paid the village and county.

"While the rest of the state may have budget problems, we don't because of Gurnee Mills and Great America," Welton said.

SPANISH GIRL SEEKS HOME IN OUR COMMUNITY

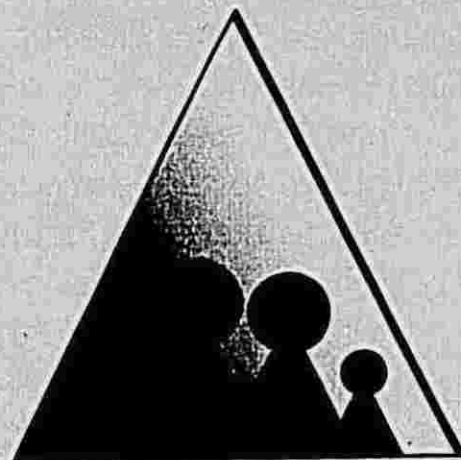

Maria from Spain is anxiously awaiting news that there is a Host Family in Lake County who will help fulfill her dream of spending a school year in the USA. Maria enjoys sports, skiing, camping and painting, and is hoping to pursue some of these interests during her exchange year. Maria is also looking forward to developing new American interests and hobbies that she can share with her friends when she returns to Spain.

Each year Spanish Heritage, a non-profit, public benefit organization, provides well-screened foreign students such as Maria with the opportunity to learn about life in the Northern Illinois area, while attending the local high school. If your family would like to help make Maria's, or another student's, year possible, please call local Spanish Heritage Area Representative E. DeLain at 708-872-8602 or Spanish Heritage (toll free) at 1-800-888-9040.

damage that was done. Why should the taxpayer pay? I live in Antioch and believe that we need a K-mart or a Venture in this area. Thank you.

Caller must have been a teacher

To open eyes in the referendum.... you said that the people who were voting no were older people or had no kids in the school. You are all wet. People with kids voted, also, because they did not want their children to be paying it, and their children. You should read Lakeland more often. We don't need a large pool or extra rooms. If the school is bad, what did you do to make it? When I went to school, the teacher had 45 to 50 students and she kept control. What do you mean, there are no computers? Buy a computer and play with it at home. You said that the library is packed. Propaganda. They are just going for the referendum. The cafeteria you have to wait 15 minutes for food? I bet when you go to work, it takes you all day to get there and five seconds to quit, if you know what I mean. How did you misuse the equipment? About my paycheck. When I started to work, my paycheck was 15 to 17 cents an hour. And if you didn't move, the boss said that he had 10 other people waiting for your job. I think that this caller was a teacher or an administrator. Think a little. This is a senior for better education, but not at the cost of taxation. Antioch.

Where do I get answers?

Hi, I'd like to comment on how the village of Fox Lake publishes little notices. For instance, there was an annexation hearing notice in the Chicago Tribune. It just gave the basics. It did not tell what property they were talking about. People aren't going to go to the meeting if the land doesn't concern them. The little ad was so small. They put a phone number on the ad, too, for more information. I called the number twice and had a friend call once. We were told three different things. The paper said it was 7:30 p.m., the person I talked to said it was at 6:30 p.m. and nobody seemed to know what the meeting was about. I think Fox Lake needs to be a bit more organized. Thank you.

Sunday message

Hi. This is what I have to say. The Lord see, the Lord hears and the Lord knows. Thank you.

Fire station needed

Hey, Gurnee politicians! How about a second fire station for the people west of the tollway. Rumor has it that traffic is getting heavier and housing denser. Control planning, you say? I don't think so. Think about our needs and concerns. New sidewalks, street lights, and police expansion are great for your side of town! Let's get our priorities straight. Life and safety should come first. Remember that at election time. Thank you.

Don't blame superintendent

This is in response to the caller last week who said that the superintendent's salary was a large factor in the decaying of our school system. I have been to many, many school board meetings in past years and I think that the statement was false and not well thought out. Dr. Sherman has been with the school system for over 20 years and has a doctor's degree in education. Why someone that has worked all his life in the school system should take a drop in pay, and teachers who have only been working 1, 3, 5 years for 8 months a year, compared to Sherman's 12, expect raises or they will strike in the fall. In the past, he has vetoed a guaranteed pay raise for himself. I think that people are placing blame in the wrong places. Thank you.

Goodies had wrong info

Yeah, I have to get something off my chest. Last week in Liz's Hometown Goodies she talked about the Antioch pageant. Yeah, it was well put together and yeah, it took months of planning. But, where did you get your info Liz. I am sorry to say, but Carol Todd did not put together the whole pageant this year. Better check your sources, Liz.

Women can make up own minds

I'd like to recommend that all men demonstrating outside of abortion clinics to nine months of wearing a chastity belt. Let them experience first hand what it is like not having control over your own body. It must be a defective male gene that causes them to inflict their will onto others. Please, we have minds. We are educated. Most importantly, we will experience the full effect of our acts and decisions. Let us make those decisions for ourselves.

The "snobs" are nice

Hi, this is in response to the caller who said that the residents of Antioch were snobs. I just moved here three years ago, and I can't believe that she thinks that there are snobs here. I have met so many nice people since I have moved. I have seen quite a few instances where a person has lost their wallet or purse and they will come back and find it all there. And I just think that the people around here are really nice. Maybe some people are just not happy anywhere, like the person that left that message. Thank you.

Lake County Museum

Hi, I'd like to see more information and articles about the Lake County Museum in Wauconda. It is our museum. It is something for everyone in Lake County to enjoy and benefit from. They have wonderful local history exhibits that change often. And the museum sponsors many programs that are educational as well as entertaining. It's really such a shame that many residents don't even know that the museum exists. Thanks a lot.

Loan rejections are unfair

Yeah, I would just like to say one thing. I think that the bankers and wherever you go for loan approval, you know, stuff happens in your past. And everybody shoots you down for a loan. The more you need a loan, the worse you can't get it. The less you need a loan, the easier it is to get. Especially with mortgages, I would really like the bankers to figure something out for people with damaged credit that really want a loan. They are still good people. I just wanted to get that off my chest. Maybe someone will do something about it. Thank you.

Cop killers, crimes of the cloth

I have a couple of things to say. "Cop Killer" and Ice Tea's recent decision to remove the song from the album and release it separately is not giving in. He and all of his critics have made the point. You do not have the license to behave cruelly or with improper motivation no matter what your occupation. My second complaint is totally unrelated. It is the accusations against religious figure heads for several crimes, especially the sexual crimes. We are watching you and you can no longer hide behind the institutions that have protected you. Abuse in any form is wrong, so beware. Grayslake.

New concept for finicky dogs

With today's growing dog population, new products are on the market more than ever. Now comes a new concept in dog food.

Meat Master meat based dog food, made the natural way and frozen fresh. There are no artificial coloring or preservatives. Meat Master formula dog food offers the dog owner a substantially higher quality dog food by being freshly frozen. Dog's, being carnivores by nature, are meant to eat fresh meat. The main ingredient is fresh meat. Fresh meat makes the food considerably more nutritious and provides a higher quality protein source.

Frozen fresh dog food is an alternative to canned dog food which contains mostly 75 percent water. Meat

Master which contains real meat and no soybean meal and no beet pulp, can be fed as a complete and balanced diet, additive to dry dog food, a supplement or taste enhancer for finicky eaters.

Meat Master has a better balanced amino acid profile with complete vitamin and mineral additives and this insures your pet of a higher quality balanced diet.

DOG Facts & Fancies

Helpful Advice From The American Kennel Club
Dealing With The "Dog Days"

Every dog has its day, they say—but few pets enjoy the "dog days" of summer! Warmer weather can be dangerous for dogs if they're not properly cared for. Fortunately, your pet may stay happy and healthy if you take these six helpful hints:

1. If you leave your dog out in the yard, be sure there's plenty of shade.

2. Keep in mind that school's out—and so are children. For everyone's protection, keep your dog on a leash or within a secure enclosure.

3. Don't leave your dog's food out in hot weather—bacteria grows quickly. If food must be left out, make it the dry kind.

4. Visit the vet for parasite medication. Check daily for ticks and fleas.

5. Try not to leave the dog alone in your car—it heats up quickly. If you must, park in the shade and leave the windows open so fresh air can circulate.

6. Most importantly: always keep plenty of cool, fresh water handy, inside and outside the house.

For more warm weather pet care advice, consult your veterinarian.

Lyme disease vaccine proven safe, effective

LymeVac Vaccine™ first federally licensed Lyme disease vaccine for dogs.

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) has granted the first full federal license for a canine Lyme disease vaccine. The inoculation that protects dogs has been approved as safe and effective.

According to the USDA analysis, field performance evaluations of the product in Lyme disease endemic areas over the last 20 months have shown that Fort Dodge Laboratories' LymeVax™ vaccine is safe and that vaccinated dogs are eight times less likely to exhibit clinical symptoms of Lyme disease than non-vaccinated dogs. These findings are part of a presentation to be given at an upcoming conference on tick-borne diseases in September in St. Paul, Minn.

"While the world waits for a human vaccine, dog owners can now have their pet vaccinated against this debilitating disease," says Dr. Steven A. Levy, one of the veterinarians who conducted the field tests on the canine vaccine. "Dogs are six to ten times more likely to catch Lyme disease than are humans because they are much more likely to be exposed to tick bites." - more-

The five-year development of the canine vaccine is detailed in two articles scheduled to be published in the August 1992 issue of The Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Assn. One of the articles describes how Fort Dodge Laboratories scientists were the first known researchers to recreate the clinical signs of Lyme disease in a laboratory setting. This breakthrough was pivotal to the development and testing of an effective vaccine.

Subsequently, this challenge model has been successfully duplicated in research laboratories at the University of Georgia, the company says.

The second article describes the laboratory testing and effectiveness of the canine vaccine. The vaccine contains chemically inactivated whole organisms of Borrelia burgdorferi, the bacterium that causes Lyme disease. The Fort Dodge product has both Osp (outer surface protein) A and Osp B antigens, which have been shown in previously reported scientific literature to stimulate the most protective immunity against experimental Lyme disease.

In addition, the article describes how the Fort

Dodge vaccine protects against B. burgdorferi organisms found in areas throughout the country. This was shown in research used to challenge the vaccine which used Lyme disease organisms from a different geographical location of the United States than the organism used to make the vaccine. The vaccine proved effective in these tests.

According to the authors, this indicates the vaccine is capable of stimulating a cross-protective immunity in vaccinated dogs against different strains of Lyme disease.

Cook rose gardens deal with winter damage

Most rose growers, on surveying the damage of last winter to their established plantings, found that many plants didn't make it through and needed to be replaced. Why was the mildest winter in several years so hard on roses in the Lake County area? Even if you went to great pains to winter protect it is likely that you lost almost 20 percent of the hybrid tea type bushes. Many of those that made it are looking decidedly the worse for wear.

The real damage was done this winter at the very beginning of the season. As Lake County rose growers came out of October, an unusually wet spell over a two week period had the rose canes full of moisture. Then started November with a bitterly cold spell with temperatures down into the single digits. This ruptured cells within the cane and led to substantial dieback. One such spell can kill a tender bush, but Mother Nature was bent on committing havoc this winter; there were two more similar sequences where the temperature warmed up for a week or more during which gardeners were treated to an ample supply of rain, only to be followed by hard freezes. The mild temperatures in January and February that followed were almost a mockery for the rose grower. The damage had already been done. It may have been compounded by a very cold spring. Cool springs definitely slow down the new growth but probably don't diminish the number of shoots.

This will be a season to watch out for below-graft shoots. Most modern roses, particularly the hybrid tea type, are grafted onto a wild shrub or climbing type rootstock to gain the advantage of the vigorous growth characteristic of these simple varieties. New shoots which come from above the graft union will be typical of the rose type which was originally purchased and planted. If a shoot comes from below the graft union it will have the characteristics of the root stock. Below graft shoots are best detected by their appearance. They are usually very tall and thin, ending in a "blind" tip, i.e. they don't produce a flower. The leaves are usually smaller and more serrated than those of above-graft growth. Below graft growth should be removed as early as possible and at their point of origin. The preferred method is to take hold of the shoot firmly with leather gloved hands and pull it up and out away from the plant. If this is done when the soil is moist and before the shoot gets too old it will break away from the root stock well under the ground and leave no greenwood from which to sprout.

This year in the L. J. Arthur Rose Garden in Cook Memorial Park, Libertyville, the garden suffered the worst winter loss in 20 plus years. Even after replacing three varieties with the usual new roses donated by commercial rose hybridizers, a total of 60 bushes, they still needed to replace 173 plants killed off by the weather. Most years the garden replaces between 10 and 20 plants as a result of winter losses. This out of a total of almost 800 bushes. Some varieties fare much better than others. There are 69 shrub roses in the garden. None of these were lost and only one of the three shrub varieties suffered any significant die-back on their canes. Olympiad, a red hybrid tea AARS winner in 1984, came through the winter virtually unscathed. However, the pink floribunda AARS winner of 1990, Pleasure, was killed off to the last bush.

To confound the winter-kill problems at Cook Park they have a problem which took some diagnosing and which they had not previously encountered nor read about. Most of those bushes which did come up were being eaten off. Large stems were being eaten anywhere from ground level to a foot high. The tips of the shoots were left to fall to the ground. Occasionally a strip of bark tissue would remain to connect the stump with the tip. Initial candidates for the culprit were deer (the area around town had experienced a deer population explosion and they had been seen in town but not quite so close to the center), groundhogs, and cutworms. Cook Park ruled out the first two by looking for any traces of the animal, footprints, burrows, dung and then went about soil drenching with Diazinon. This didn't slow down the damage at all. In fact the rate seemed to be increasing. John Swanick and I got down on our hands and knees and dug around the bushes intent on finding a specimen. By this stage I was convinced was some new, Diazinon-resistant, large type of cutworm must have infested the garden. Looking up, I saw a squirrel scamper through the garden, stop at a bush and proceed to eat some of it. A close inspection of that bush showed that the damage was of exactly the type we were suffering from. As we sat there and watched two more furry marauders came down and feasted on the bushes. The damage that these little bundles of fur had done was unbelievable. They showed clear preferences for certain varieties (those with reddish tip foliage were the prime targets), and the real favorites were mowed off within an inch of the ground. My anger was enough to bring arsenic-coated peanuts to mind but as rationality returned there were only two alternatives short of abandoning the rose garden. Either we could trap the little monsters and transport them to some distant spot or we had to change their eating habits back to what they had been before this Spring. We are trying the latter with some Repel®. One has to wonder what brought on this sudden taste for young rose stems. After-all we have always had a squirrel population in the park. Did they over-populate (there are a lot of them) and exceed their normal food supply or did one adventurous young fellow try a new diet and decide it was the equivalent of Hagendas, only to have his friends muscle in on this new found bonanza?

Ants: more than annoyance

A summer picnic wouldn't be complete without a parade of ants. But when ants parade indoors to our homes, the picnic is over. Besides being an annoyance, they can contaminate foods and spread plant disease.

According to experts, household ants often come calling this time of year. Most of the ant problems brought to our attention start in the summer. Although ants swarm during the spring and fall, too, most of calls for help come during the summer months.

Unlike some other bugs, ants are active both day and night, which makes them a double pest. They are especially attracted to moist and dark areas in the home.

Ants often feed on sweets, as well as meat, seeds, and other insects. Although household pests can be a problem under the cleanest of conditions, removing the ants' food source is usually the first step to controlling them.

Of course, the food source doesn't have to be very large to keep the ants coming. They can feast on just a few grains of sugar spilled in a cabinet, and even on dabs of toothpaste in the bathroom.

If food sources have been eliminated and the ants are still marching in, it's important to try and determine their path to ultimately locate their nest or entry point into the house. Usually ants travel in columns, so their route is pretty easy to track. If it's not clear, putting out a little honey or bacon in the trouble spot will usually attract enough to establish which direction they are coming from.

After the entry point has been determined, it can be treated and sealed to prevent re-entry, Bates said. The most effective treatment is to destroy the nest, which can be found in soil, wood, under concrete areas, in walls or in cabinets. Houses built on concrete slabs often have particular problems, because the ants nest under the slab, and sneak in through cracks, heating ducts, or other openings.

Because all types of ants produce some winged members, sometimes ants are mistaken for termites. Termites have a straight body, while ants have a narrow waist. A termite's four wings are all the same length, while an ant's wings are shorter in the back.

If you can't tell which pest is pestering you, or if your ant troubles won't go away, it may be necessary to call in a professional.

If you do seek professional help, it is recommended that you follow these simple guidelines when choosing a pest control company.

1. Be sure the company you contact is reputable and reliable. (If you have doubts, call the Better Business Bureau.)
2. Many firms offer free inspections. Ask about this service when you call.
3. Get more than one estimate and compare services.
4. Make sure the pest control company you choose guarantees their work.

Survival tips for allergy sufferers

Regardless of where one lives, there is no escaping allergies. But don't despair. If you struggle with the seasonal onslaught of a runny nose, itching eyes, scratchy throat and spasms of sneezes, here are a few snuffle-sparing tips to make one breathe easier.

•Limit early morning activities. Pollen levels are highest during the first hours of the day, so try taking power walks in the afternoons instead of first thing in the morning.

•Prevention is the best medicine. One can't escape nature's course. But one can use the simple, effective over-the-counter allergy symptom relievers available. Plan to use an antihistamine about 30 minutes before going outdoors. An antihistamine will prevent the symptoms from occurring, but should be taken prior to exposure to allergens.

•Soothe the itch! For relief of red, itchy, burning eyes caused by allergens, try using over-the-counter eye drops made specifically for allergies.

Eye drops that simply remove the red may make the eye look better, but won't relieve the irritation.

•Stay cool. Air-conditioning is one of the easiest ways to escape the outdoor overload of allergens. A simple window unit in one room of your house can provide a refuge of clean, cool, dry air. If in a car, keep the windows up.

•Know the enemy. Pollens and plants can vary greatly—size, blooming schedule, and season can all have a great effect on allergy sufferers. Before planning a garden, make sure to ask the local nursery about the effect the plants may have on your allergies.

Roses

our efforts last year when the garden looked nice all summer. Sure, the hedge of Bonica in front of the Cook mansion will give out its usual display, but the main part of the garden will have a few isolated plantings that look OK in a fairly sad matrix. Hopefully, we will get this up to something respectable by the end of the season.

The three AARS award winners for 1993 which you can preview in the garden this summer are Sweet Inspiration, a pink floribunda, which is planted directly in front of the water fountain, Rio Samba, a yellow-orange blend hybrid tea planted on the north side of the northwest bed, and the miniature Child's Play, white with pink edges which has been planted as a border to garden in the center of the patio close to Milwaukee Avenue. A fourth 1993 AARS winner, an orange-yellow grandiflora, Solitude, was not available in numbers for planting this year but hopefully we will have a planting of it next year.

COLLEGE OF LAKE COUNTY

Maybe it's our friendly faces

With enrollment approaching 16,000 students and more than 1 in every 5 recent high school graduates now attending the college, CLC must be doing something right.

Maybe it's the quality of instruction resulting from small class sizes and committed, caring instructors like Leslie Hopkins.

Maybe it's the strong support services provided by writing tutor Troy Thibodeaux and others to ensure students succeed.

Or maybe it's the advice counselors like Nancy Bentley and Black Student Union advisor Pierre Edmonds give to ensure students start and stay on the right track.

Then again, maybe it's simply our smiling, friendly faces.

Isn't it time you learned more about CLC?

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tune into others and "vibe out" with them all week long. You restore all the mystery and magic to your life. Say yes to the ride on the flying carpet to adventure and more. You may or may not settle down.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A flagrant attitude at work could get you into trouble. Realize that trouble is brewing, and do be careful, unless you want the boss to go ballistic. A partner stands behind you, but remember to give them some T.L.C.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be rather cool when dealing with an outrageous member of the opposite sex. Work seems to be a secondary priority right now, with all the fun and games happening. The weekend is designed to heat up your romantic life.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You not only see life differently, you are able to move in new directions. Your libido goes wild, as your creativity spins out. Romance intensifies because of you. Share a favorite pastime with a special friend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Chat up a storm and get things done efficiently and quickly. Take a midweek break with a family member. Take the time to check out an investment as well. You cruise into an early weekend and are out on the prowl.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Finances are the main focus this week. Build up on your security and check out an investment. Talks toward the end of the week open up new possibilities. Make the first move if you must — it's well worth it. You settle into a more loving mode this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You are the "personality kid" of the zodiac this week and, boy, do you maximize each and every opportunity. Be careful with that extravagant streak — it could do you in. Otherwise, you get your work done and still have plenty of time for the lighter side of life.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) You need to "veg" some before you come to a decision. You're able to resolve a situation because you do your homework. Listen carefully when another opens up to you, because you get long-overdue information.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Open up to the moment and to a very special friendship. Let the good vibrations flow between you and another. You are finally able to see life through brand new eyes. The ups and downs of life become more than apparent when you peak this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Allow another to question the alternatives that surround a work situation. This may not be your problem. You plunge into an early weekend and get roped into doing something at the last minute. Go with it and you'll be a happy camper.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Be more upbeat dealing with a distant loved one who really, really cares. Accept the acknowledgment that comes with taking care of responsibilities. You bring in the weekend with lots of celebrating.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You're in a dreamlike state, and you feel better than you have in a long time. Don't float away in the clouds, but use this creativity at work. Make key phone calls and be prepared to put in more than your share of work.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I have been employed in the same position with a great company for the past 2 years and am disappointed at the idea of having been passed over for a newly developed position in my department. The position offers higher salary and better growth potential. I just learned the company is looking for someone from the outside whom I will report to. I am considering leaving for this reason. What would you suggest I do? L.R.

A: First of all, you and your employer have 2 years invested in each other. The job market 2 years ago was very different than it is today. Today we have more people unemployed and fewer jobs to go around. You have not mentioned whether or not your employer is aware of your feelings. Have you asked for the position? If not, why? It seems to me that before you get your feathers all ruffled, get the facts! Perhaps the position requires more than you are aware of. Speak to your boss about how you feel and work it out from there. If you love the company and love your job, and never thought twice about ever leaving prior to hearing about this position, why, oh why, would you think of quitting now? Good Luck!

Q: My employer called me into his office today to tell me that I have had excessive problems reporting to work on time in the morning. He told me he has 3 documented days within the last 3 weeks where I have been 15 minutes late and therefore I am being put on probation. Do you think he was trying to tell me to start looking for another job? What would you recommend I do? I.L.S.

A: If your employer called you in to speak with you about your lack of punctuality, consider yourself warned! Do I think he was trying to tell you to look for another job? No. What he was trying to tell you is for you get to work on time! By your employer giving you warning about this problem is to say that if you are dismissed due to reporting late for work, he has covered himself in that you had been warned and were given a chance to correct the problem. In answer to your question as to whether or not I feel you should seek other employment...Do you really believe that if you change jobs the problem of being on time for work, or not, as the case may be, will be corrected? Allow me to make 3 recommendations to you. 1. Stay with your current job and do more than your best effort to be to work on time. 2. Buy a better alarm clock. 3. Buy 2 alarm clocks.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.
Letters can be sent to Nancy c/o Lakeland Newspapers.

I HELPED SAVE A SMALL LIFE TODAY!

We don't destroy homeless animals! They live their full lives uncaged if not adopted. We spay and neuter, conduct a dynamic pet visitation/therapy program for the elderly, provide education programs for young people and offer a special "pet retirement" program. THANK YOU FOR YOUR HELP!

GENTRY 3 (332-100)
By Landmark Designs, Inc.

GENTRY

The Gentry is a large, bright country-style plan that includes partially finished bonus rooms on the second floor.

As the need for living space grows, these attic spaces can be converted to bedrooms, hobby rooms, or whatever. Finished rooms upstairs include a bedroom with walk-in closet a storage closet, and a bathroom with ample counter space for two basins and linen storage.

One of the home's most outstanding features is a window-rich sun porch with six long skylights. Ferns and other potted plants have no choice but to thrive in this naturally illuminated environment. Light spills over into the family room and dining room through French doors. In the kitchen, a wide window in front of the sink offers a vista through the sun porch and into the back yard.

Family living and entertainment areas cluster around the centrally located kitchen. Living room and library face the front; dining room and vaulted family room are at the rear. And there is a choice of three eating areas: formal dining room, informal nook and eating bar, for quick snacks.

This large kitchen also has a built-in cooktop, dishwasher and oven, lazy susan shelving in the corner, and a walk-in pantry. Some of the pantry shelves are directly accessible from the kitchen.

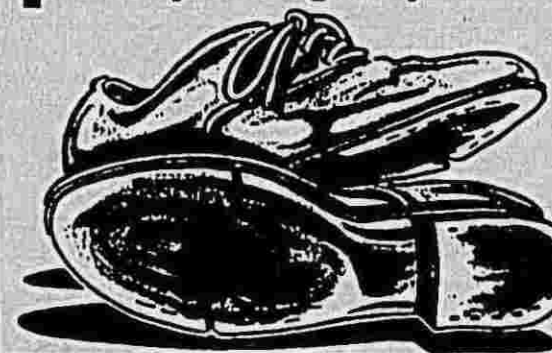

A storage closet and an odd-shaped powder room flank the hallway that leads to the utility room - a large space for folding clothes. This room can also be reached from the two-car garage, which has extra space for storage space, the Gentry can be built over a basement.

Luxury amenities in the master suite include a vaulted ceiling, a large walk-in closet, and a second vanity in the dressing area. A small bay window expands and brightens the bathroom. Plants bloom so profusely on the garden shelf next to the tub that baths feel like a trip to the tropics.

In addition to its luxurious bathroom, the master suite has a large walk-in closet.

For a study plan of the GENTRY 3 (332-100), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

Craftsman contains talent for making wooden boxes

by AMY E. PRZYTULA
Lakeland Newspapers

What do band saws, jewelry boxes, and whales have in common? They all have to do with Larry Anderson's hobby. He designs, cuts, and sells small creative boxes out of exotic wood from all over the world.

"I get ideas for the shapes of the boxes from everything I see," said Anderson of Lake Zurich. "Some are inspired by whales, some by clothes and some by bars of soap."

Anderson started working with wood when he finished high school. He first started making products when he went to an art fair five years ago.

"I wanted to mass produce breadboxes, pencil holders," he remembers, "but it got very boring. I like the creativity of making each box by hand."

Each of Anderson's boxes are unique. He crafts each piece of wood into a box with a lid in one to three hours. "They are originals," Anderson said. "Every one is a little bit different."

The boxes are generally used for jewelry. There are boxes fit for the masculine as well as the feminine eye. "When I got my Rolex a few years ago, I made one for myself," he said.

"When Governor Thompson was still in office," Anderson said, "he bought several of my boxes to give to foreign dignitaries." Anderson believes that his work is found throughout Europe. "I even think the governor took them to South America and Japan," he added.

And around the globe is where the finished product belongs, because the wood that Anderson uses doesn't always come from the United States. "I get the Purple Heart from South America," he said. "The Pink Ivory, Mexican King and Ebony all are from around the world and are sometimes hard to find or expensive."

Native wood is also a part of Anderson's craft. "Some of my wood comes from the Pacific Northwest or Ohio," he said. "This piece is from a cedar tree that blew down in my neighbor's yard," he laughs.

Anderson's boxes usually don't wind up past the Lake County area. Although he one day hopes to ship his product around the nation, he just doesn't have the time to make that many boxes right now. "It's just a hobby," he said, "so I sell my boxes at specialty gift stores and go to a few craft shows a year." His boxes retail from $30 to $75 dollars.

Anderson has never had any formal woodworking classes. He worked with an architect for seven years and went to art school for three years. "My grandfather was a piano maker, I guess I inherited his talent," Anderson said.

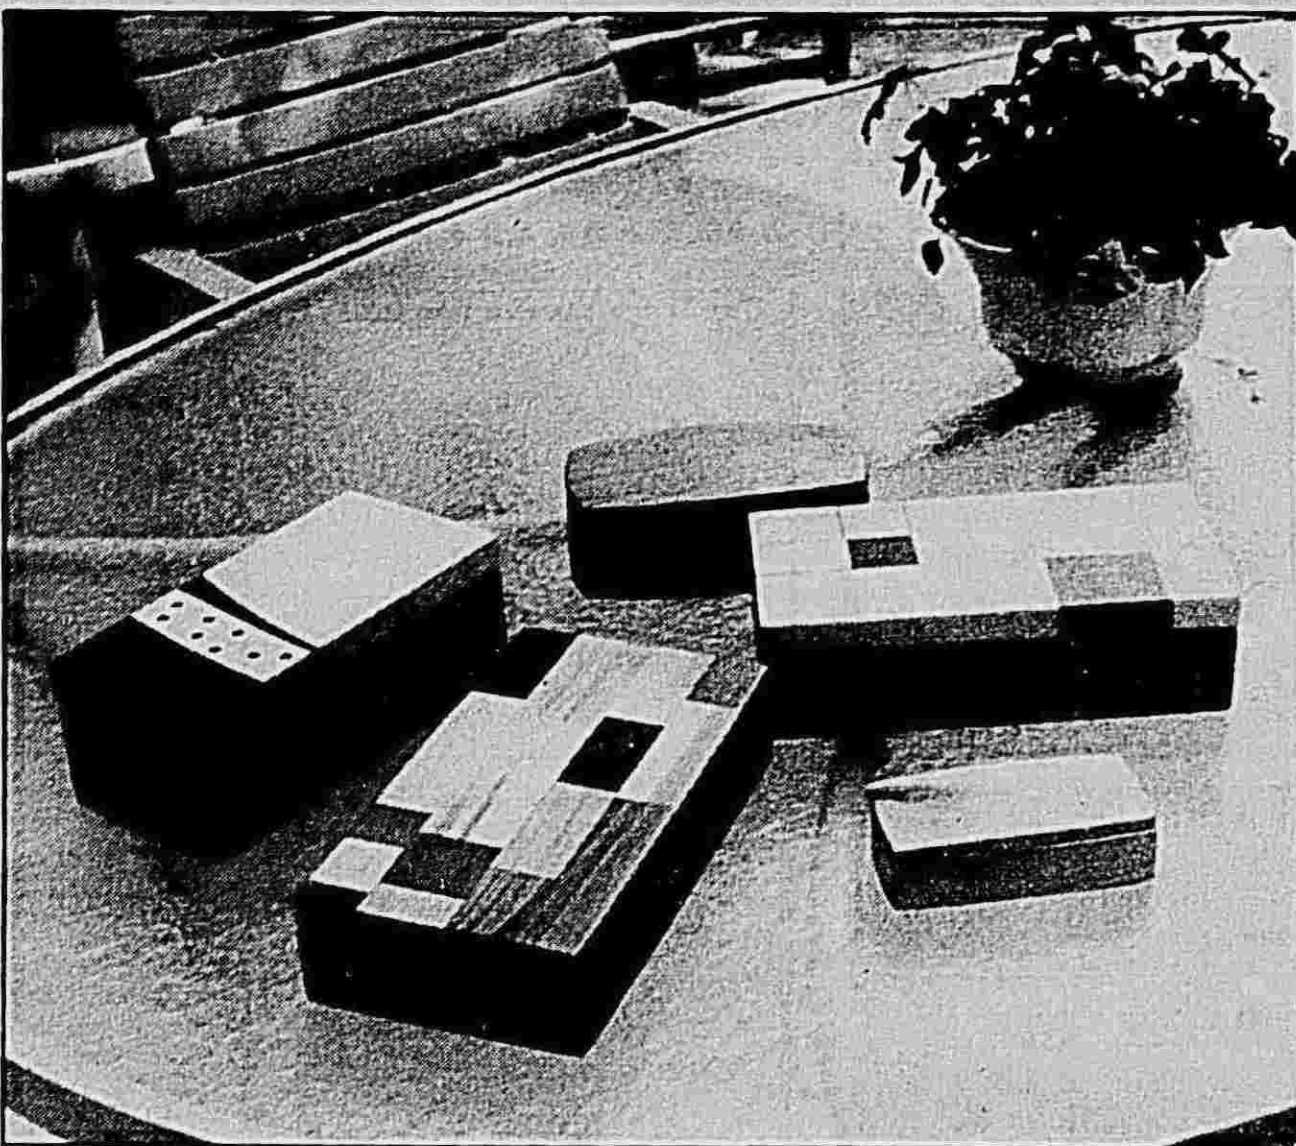

"I do this for fun," said Anderson, "I will need something to do when I retire."

Anderson works with raw wood and creates unique boxes by using only a few saws, a couple sanders, know-how, and creativity. "And I haven't seriously cut myself yet," he said, "and there is enough wood to knock on around here."

Larry Anderson creates original boxes used for jewelry and other collectables.—

Long-time soccer players playing for love of sport

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

The handful of soccer fans were fighting a losing battle with dragonflies.

Coaches were also players, coaching as much if not more so from the soccer field than along the Viking Park sidelines.

Players ran up and down the field in Gurnee, the same way as they did more than 10 years earlier when they wore the jerseys of the Blue Devils, Wildcats, Sequoits or Bears.

The sunlight was scarce as the Gurnee men's over 30 soccer team held on for a 2-1 win Friday over Algonquin in the men's Tri-County Soccer League.

"You get a lot of guys who have played all their lives," Rich Hosanna said.

Hosanna, a mechanical engineer in Morton Grove by day, was resting as his Gurnee team battled for its fourth win of the year. He explained the phenomena called over 30-soccer to a visitor.

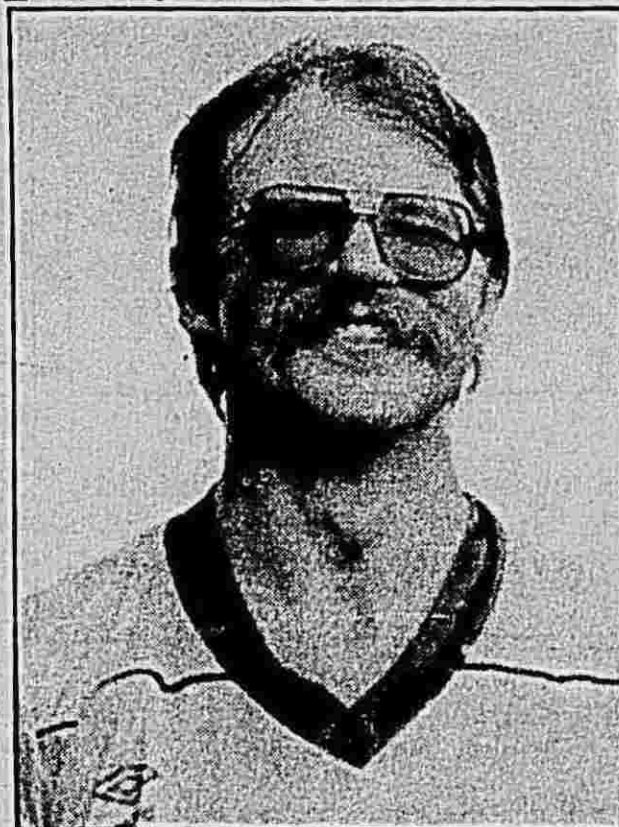

The team's Friday nights have been taken from late April to mid-August, with the finale of the regular season next week. Rhodes' team practices on Wednesdays.

Teams from Tower Lakes near Barrington to Arlington and north to McHenry play in the 16-team loop. Gurnee, Libertyville and Lake Zurich are towns with two teams entered.

For Jim Gibour, his involvement in soccer may be described as a hand-me-up situation. "My kids started playing when they were five or six-years old. I became an assistant coach and saw an ad in the paper for a 30-and-over-team," Gibour said.

Gibour recalls with pride Gurnee team's second season, eight years ago. "We came in second and only lost to Lindenhurst," he said.

"We've had mostly coaches of younger teams," Gurnee Coach Tom Rhodes, whose team notched its fourth win in 13 outings, said.

In fact, the team has been coming on strong as of late, beating a Lake Zurich team and Tower Lakes.

Warren Township High School soccer coach Tom Wendorf scored the first goal for Gurnee while wing Craig McNab tallied the game-winner.

"The more I play, the more technical knowledge of the game I gain," Wendorf said. That technical knowledge is translated to the Blue Devil program, which has been on the rise of late.

Several different players have played goalie for Gurnee, including Gibour, Rhodes, Roger Bock and Jose Arias.

The teams will be competing in a post-season tourney after the Aug. 14 matches, completing the 16-week schedule.

Then Gibour can watch his son Keith play forward for Warren.

Hofflander to close out semi-pro football career

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

It happens every late October or early November, like Halloween and the first snowfall.

"Every year I say, 'this was my last year and Steve's Clearing House is open for business,'" Steve Hofflander said.

But like clockwork and before the customers come, Hofflander zips up the duffel bag, puts it in the closet and rests before hitting the weights for the next year. This time, the 1981 Grant High grad vows this really will be the last season.

"I love this game so much I don't want to quit, but I'm getting married next month and I have to hang it up," Hofflander said.

Hofflander, 29, has been playing football for close to 20 years now. Next month he will marry Traci Roan. Traci's brother played football at University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh and has been a source of inspiration.

He started at age 11 with the Lakeland Cardinals program.

Now he is one of the veterans who have played all four years the Vikings have existed, and before that with DuPage Eagles. It was with DuPage, in fact, that he experienced his greatest success, as the team reached the national quarterfinals.

He has never missed a game due to injury, despite an injured spleen whose scar still shows from a Grant sophomore football game.

Some players enter semi-pro ball with thoughts of an NFL scout "finding" them and handing them a contract. While some played during the strike year of 1983, most know the chances of playing for the Bears the next week are slim.

Hofflander plays the role of recruiter and gathers his teammates around during plays sort of an on-field coach.

"I was walking off the field after a game with Milwaukee and Mark Van Guilden came up to me and asked if we needed any linemen. Later, after coming home from a game in Gary, I noticed him at the Lake Forest Oasis," Hofflander said.

Van Guilden combined with Darrell

Thorn on a key fourth-quarter sack in a 46-0 Vikings win over the Chicago Falcons Saturday. Vikings head Coach Russ Kraly said Hofflander and newcomer Mark Van Guilden had outstanding games on defense.

Hofflander doesn't mind sharing tips with players who he just went toe-to-toe against in the trenches. "If they have a good game, I will tell them," he said.

"My Dad used to say, 'on any given Sunday, there will be players who have been better than you'. I have come up against that player many times," Hofflander said.

Mother Nature has thrown many a knuckler in Hofflander's game plan. "St. Louis game in the playoffs was the worst. The temperature was 30-35 degrees and it started snowing at halftime. The field (at Round Lake High) was torn up and it froze. And we lost the game by three points. We also played a game at Mundelein High School with 95 degree temperatures and the humidity was so thick you could cut it with a knife," he said.

By day, Hofflander works for a sewer and water company in Evanston, operating a bulldozer. But he would like to get into coaching.

"I'd like to coach sophomore football. It is such an important developmental stage for varsity. I still remember some of the things my sophomore coach, Frank Cittadino, taught me," he said.

Garrett, Vikings finding semi-pro ball can be fun

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Willie Garrett may have only played two semi-pro football games, but Lake County Vikings fans have already become accustomed to his darting past defenders and getting one step in the open field and turning a small gain into six points.

Garrett unofficially had 81 yards and scored three touchdowns as the Vikings whitewashed Chicago Falcons 46-0 at Round Lake High. The win evened the Vikings pre-season mark at 1-1.

"It's fun. In college they ran the wish-bone but here they run out of the power I. I feel more comfortable with the I," Garrett said.

Garrett played his collegiate ball in Fremont, Neb., after prepping at Waukegan West High.

The Viking coaching staff is pretty, comfortable this week, with a week off before a date at Hanson Stadium with the Chicago Falcons Aug. 15.

Garrett had turned some heads in a 17-14 loss to the Chicago Chargers the week before, scoring the Vikings' first touchdown of the season. He scored on touchdown runs of 24, nine and 25 yards.

Running back Bob Lochman got the offense going in the first quarter on a 15-yard touchdown run. Walter Tesch threw an 18-yard pass to team owner Rick Starosta for a 13-0 lead.

Wauconda runner helps relay team break record

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Most track and field organizers would be pleased that a meet with more than 100 runners went smoothly. To compete would just be gravy to an already fulfilling day.

Harold Brown took both ingredients a couple of steps higher as his 4x200 meter relay team set a world record at a masters meet at Wauconda High School.

Brown runs the second leg of the relay, which also includes Joe Berghold of Berwyn; Bob Sobolewski of Bolingbrook and Chuck Sochor of Gowen, Michigan. The team had a 1:47.07 compared to a mark set in 1983 by Great Britain of 1:50.

"The second and third legs have to both hand off and accept handoffs of the baton," Brown said.

Brown is a former DePaul University athlete who this year was named president of the Midwest Masters Club.

"I love relays; they're the best," Brown said.

Sobolewski ran the anchor leg, competing in the 60-69 year-old division. There were 30-35-year olds running at the time.

"I was at the finish line because that is where the second turn ends. He was within three meters of the leaders coming around the turn and I knew we had a chance to break the record," Brown said.

Brown played high school baseball and football at St. Patrick's in Chicago before beginning track and field at DePaul.

"I thoroughly enjoy it. I've been to four world championships since 1985 in the Olympic Stadium in Rome; in 1987 at Melbourne, Australia, 1989 in Eugene, Ore. and 1991 in Turku Finland.

All told, more than 100 Masters athletes, which start at age 30, competed at Wauconda. Also setting world records were: Richard Richardson, age 59, in the high jump with a five-foot, four inch leap and Joyce Decker of Woodstock in the two mile run-walk with a 19.8 clocking.

Brown will take a few weeks off before its off to start a new challenge to the record at the Illinois State Senior Olympics Sept. 25-27 in Springfield.

RK eye procedure wins endorsement in survey

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Just 12 months ago, Barry L. Seiller, M.D. would have given a different opinion about radial Keratotomy (RK) than he does today.

"I was skeptical up to about a year ago," Seiller, founder of the Eye Care Center of Lake County, said.

Seiller's beliefs on the procedure, which eliminates the need for eyeglasses or contact lenses, has been strengthened by a survey done with 1,500 RK patients who were recreational athletes. Seiller reported results of the survey at the ninth annual meeting of the International Academy of Sports Vision in Hershey, Pa. The survey revealed of those with nearsightedness or astigmatism, 97 percent reported improved vision and 71 percent of the respondents said the procedure had a positive effect on their sports performance.

"I think the surprising aspects is the wide variety of ages, we had people as young as 16 years-old and in their 80's. The results also showed athletes felt they enjoyed their sport more," Seiller said.

The patients were surveyed a minimum of six months after the procedure. Of the 1,500 surveys sent out, 544 responses were analyzed in three post-operation groups: six to 12 months, 12 to 24 months and 24 months and more than 24 months. "We wanted to see what people's perception of having the survey was and we found six months is a peak. The survey also found up to one and one-half years after surgery, there was still some continued improvement," Seiller said.

The survey was done through the Keratorefractive Study Group, sponsored by Chiron Ophthalmics, Inc., which helped coordinate the survey's distribution through ophthalmic surgeons across the United States.

Seiller attended the winter Olympics in France as part of the first coordinated effort by the Olympic committee and Bausch and Lomb Inc. "It was very interesting. We found athletes were not paying as much attention to their vision as their general training. Vision is a key to good performance in a lot of sports," Seiller said.

Some 400 athletes were tested and given recommendations in France and further testing is being done at the summer games in Barcelona, Spain.

Seiller has just returned from a weekend with the United States Ski team. A training program was recommended, not only for vision but visual skills. He is also working as a consultant with the developmental squad, a younger group of 40 to 60 skiers.

The biggest example might be sports which require a great degree of head movement such as tennis.

RK was first used in the early 1980s. "It was first used in Russia, where the regulations are not as strict. It has been more popular here the last two years. We have more of a data base to work from and the procedure is becoming more standardized," Seiller said.

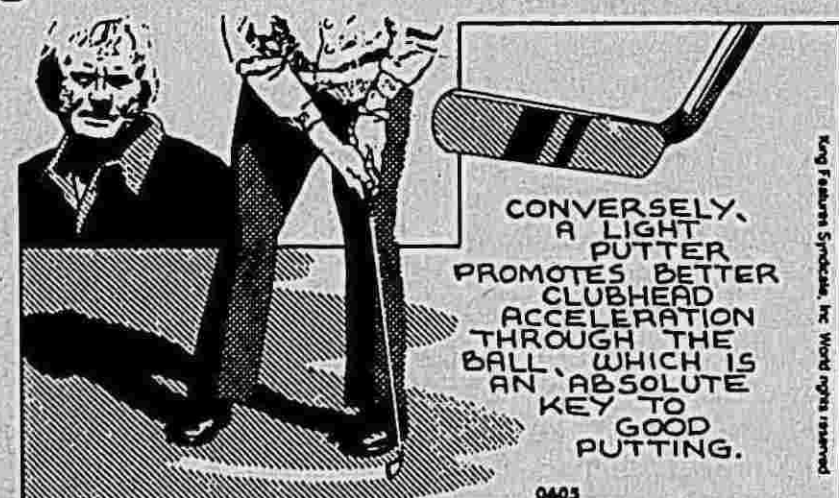

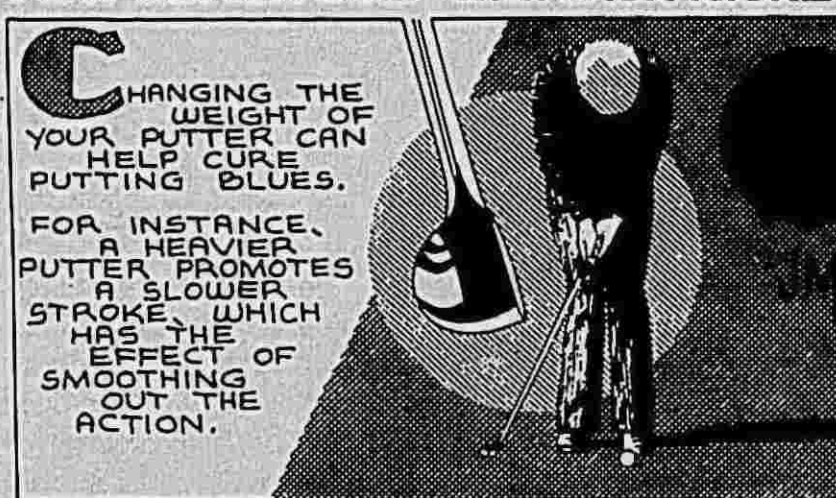

RK is presently performed with a diamond knife in the front of the eye. Costs $1,200 an eye. "We are talking about something that can last a lifetime," Seiller said. "Patients are telling us they are glad they can wake up in the morning and see something as opposed to reaching for contacts or glasses," he said.

Patients are also spreading the word, recommending the procedure to others.

Seiller's son, Mark, in fact is scheduled to have the procedure done this week.

Seiller is a board-certified ophthalmologist and is medical director at Visual Fitness Institute of Vernon Hills. The Eye Care Center of Lake County has offices in Vernon Hills, Fox Lake and Waukegan.

Richmond board OK's variance

The Richmond Village Board has approved a zoning variance for Atwood-Hamlin Manufacturers.

The setback variance will allow the company to build an addition to its facility on Rte. 173.

The board heard a request for the continuance of a building permit from Robert and Virginia Clausen.

The permit will be allowed if the terms of an agreement being drawn up by the village and the Clausens are met. The Clausens plan a retail project at the Main Street location.

The board also waived a liquor license fee for the Firemen's Street Dance Aug. 28.

Co-op effort gets job finished at boat basin

A cooperative effort between the Fox Riverfront Federation and the Chain O' Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency has led to a significant improvement in the entry access to the Lion's Park Boat Basin.

Last Week, the channel was dredged as part of a picnic festivity. Jon Lund and Don Longmire did the dredging, using the amphibious backhoe.

Approximately 25 cubic yards of silt material was placed on the shore. This material will be removed to an upland site after drying. The dredged material in the Chain and Fox River has been certified by the Environmental Protection Agency as safe for any upland application.

Michael Weiser said, "The dredged material is runoff from adjacent and upstream shore lines and farms, and this material is being used for upland fill and land restoration projects," said Michael Weiser, executive director of the waterway agency.

Dr. William Dam, waterway agency chairman, expressed his gratitude for the excellent work and cooperative effort by members of the federation and agency staffs.

Dam said the agency plans to set an extended agenda to accelerate dredging.

"We're hoping by this time next year we'll have an outline for dredging over the next three years," Dam said.

A dredging schedule is being established with a priority based on feasibility, economy and demonstrated cooperation by petition of residents in the areas to be dredged.

The dredging program has picked up steam following meetings with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Federal and State Divisions of Fish and Wildlife and the Illinois Dept. of Conservation.

Thirsting for Answers about Water and Nutrition

"Liquid Assets" critical to athletes

by Dave Johnson
Sports Correspondent

Every serious athlete considers his or her personal health and nutrition regimen a critical component of conditioning. To maintain a competitive edge, athletes in peak physical condition pay strict attention to everything they eat and drink.

A careful and disciplined approach to diet and nutrition becomes even more important at

Bottled drinking water has become a "liquid asset" for athletes, and can be found on the training tables of athletes worldwide to aid in fluid replacement. Since impurities are filtered out of the water at the bottling plant, an athlete can drink the water with confidence, knowing that harmful ingredients won't impair his or her finely-tuned "machine."

An olympic athlete, in particu-

the world class level, where events such as the decathlon can drain an athlete physically and emotionally if his or her body isn't trained for the necessary strength and endurance.

Fluid depletion, in particular, is of enormous concern to athletes. The rapid loss of body fluids can cause serious health problems, such as heat stroke and cramping, if fluids are not replenished.

The athlete will know that the same superior quality of bottled drinking water enjoyed back home will taste as great wherever the next athletic competition is held. This consistency is something athletes understand.

For consistency is the foundation of athletic performance, and ultimately, of winning.

Dave Johnson is a sports consultant to Hinckley & Schmitt's Scientific Advisory Board and is America's Olympic decathlon gold medal hopeful in the 1992 Barcelona Summer Games. The holder of many athletic sports records—including a recent world decathlon record set at Mr. SAC Relays—Dave took home a gold medal in the decathlon at the 1990 Goodwill Games, and is national decathlon champion for the fourth time.

New water storage tank in plan stage

New water storage facilities are planned for Round Lake Beach. It will be in the form of a ground storage tank on Nicole Ln. in Willow Ridge subdivision unit 3 on the village's north side.

Tentative cost is $1.2 million for the 25-foot high, 27-foot diameter tank capable of holding 500,000 to 1 million gallons. The capacity will depend upon the cost of the project and available village dollars to finance it.

DeVry Engineering has been awarded a contract to design the new facility. Also being considered is centralized pumping and administrative facilities for this or another location.

The almost one-acre site will be landscaped to make it aesthetically attractive to the adjoining residential community. Because of the sloping terrain, the tank will be partially built into the hillside.

Mayor Carl Schrimpf said he will attempt to determine future water needs of developers in order to plan the size of the new facility. Several developers on the north side of the Round Lake Beach are in the early stages of starting projects. These include Sundance Homes along Cedar Lake Rd. and Lexington Homes located off Rte. 83.

Today's faltering economy has leveled home sales. Once ambitious plans by developers have been reigned in.

Still, Round Lake Beach wants to plan for the future. That includes daily storage of up to 5-million gallons of water.

The Nicole Ave. location for the newest storage facility is the next step toward that goal.

Kids aren't safe

Hi, I am calling from Lake Villa. I was going to call two weeks ago and I can't wait any longer. I have two children presently and one of my children suffered a stroke at birth and is handicapped. And I guess that it just appals me that people don't realize how precious healthy children are. Once a child is handicapped, that child is handicapped for life. It is a great undertaking and a great trauma for the entire family. What happened two weeks ago was I saw a young couple with a small child sitting on the mother's lap in the front seat, no harness, no seat belt. It was in a convertible. This is traveling 50 to 55 miles an hour. And I would like to know what they were thinking in their obviously brainless heads. This child was not safe in that type of situation. Do these parents realize that if they were in a collision at just 30 miles an hour that this child would suffer death or worse, being handicapped for life? This goes along with parents holding children in their arms while having a cigarette dangling from their mouth. All the things that we force upon our children when they don't have a choice in the matter affects their lives. How do these parents really feel toward their children? This is something that I have wanted to sound off about for a long time. I would just like parents to think twice about what they are doing. Because I don't want them to live the type of life that we do with a handicapped child. Thank you. Bye-bye.

Mozart without his keyboard

Hi, I am a 9-year-old girl with a 7-year-old brother. Both of us want to learn how to play the piano. My mom says that she wishes that we could have one because she thinks that we would be good at it. We keep asking her to get us one, but she says that we don't have the money. It's really hard with just the three of us. So if anyone knows where my brother and I can get a used piano, please call this service and then I can tell my mom I found a piano all by myself. My name is Brooke and my brother is Casey. Thank you. Bye.

Can't read the meter

People of Round Lake Park... wake up! We can read the electric and gas meters, why not the water meter? They are put into our crawl spaces, which are only two feet deep. Remember, these were summer homes. And then, if your water bills are high, they tell you to crawl under the house to see if there is a leak. I am close to 60 years of age. How can I? Do you just sit back and take whatever reading that they give and lose the home you have had for years just to pay your water bills? Thank you.

Congrats to T-ball team

Hi, I would just like to say congratulations to Avon boys T-ball team, the A's. You made history, boys. You are the first T-ball champs ever. I hope you all had a fun season.

I love my wife and kids

Yeah, I am responding to the love message. I don't know who it was to or for, but my name is Mike and if it was from my wife, I would like her to know how I feel about her. I met her 11 years ago, when I didn't know how to love or anything like that and I was angry. Today, we have three children and they are all grown. This family I have today has melted my heart and has shown me how God loves us and how we are supposed to love Him back. And also, she is a survivor of cancer. These past years of our marriage have just been a whole new life for me. I just want her to know that I love her very much and I love our children. I am just grateful to be happy and alive today. Thank you for having this opportunity. Grayslake.

Judging not fair

I am from Gurnee and I have a comment about the Lake County Fair. Every year I enter the fair in the photography category. I see a lot of entries from both Lake County and from outside the county. And it has always been my understanding that you have to be a resident of Lake County to participate in any kind of exhibit. The problem that I have with this, is that two out of the five grand prizes are from out of the county. I feel that this takes away from those who live in the county. That's my gripe. Thank you.

Don't look us in the mouth

Hi! I would like to say something to the snobs of Antioch, Grayslake, and the surrounding communities that like to cut down Round Lake. Where do you go to shop? Round Lake is a great little town and we have a lot to offer. We don't have any snobs here either. It is really comfortable place to live. Thanks.

Play ball!

The parents of the Avon Township A's T-ball team would like to thank the volunteers for such a great season. Thanks a lot.

Love your parents

Hello, I am from Wildwood and I would like to respond to the call "Where are your kids?" I think that I really feel for her. Who knows who will cling to their parents? I know that I cling to my parents, not cling, but enjoy their company. There are both retiring and moving out of the area. That would be very sad for me. But, I have a brother who already moved out of the area who seems like he could really care less if he sees them or not. I don't understand that. But, I hope that your kids read your article and mine and realize that they are really missing out on a lot of things if they don't include you in their everyday life. I see my parents during the week and if they move away, that is going to be financially hard on me, but at least I will still talk to them. It is important to me and to them. Wake up! Thank you.

Not lazy, just sick

I would like to respond to the person that thinks that they have a cure for the welfare system. Well, I don't agree with anything that was said. Yes, there are help wanted ads but what about the people who can't work. My mother was divorced when I was in the third grade. My father left. Because of her health, she could not get a job and had to go on welfare. If my mother would have worked, she would have been dead at the end of the year. The lazy don't deserve the money, but the people that aren't healthy do. Don't assume that all welfare people are lazy. Thank you.

Rain doesn't dampen fair crowd's enthusiasm

Rain rain, go away, come back another day.

The familiar summertime refrain was the theme for two of the Lake County Fair days, as rain kept attendance below last year's levels.

There were 171,606 attending the Fairgrounds in Grayslake, surviving rain on both Thursday and Sunday. This is 30,000 less than last year's.

The festival began with WGN radio personality Al Lerner and county, fair and local officials dedicating a new building.

"It went very well other than the first day when we had a shift change right at 6 p.m. and we had inexperienced people. We had eight booths going and we had people walking around with aprons taking tickets," Walt Krumery, president of the Lake County Fair Association, said.

The building was designed by Sutter and Sutter architects of Libertyville.

"People really appreciated the blacktopped road for the handicapped," Krumery said.

Stacy Olkiewicz, 1991 Miss Lake County Fair, passed her crown along to Miss Libertyville, Gretchen Prueter. The Little Miss Lake County pageant was moved to Grayslake Community High School, and Danielle Calcari, an 8-year-old from Waukegan, was crowned by last year's winner, Kimberly Ann Becker.

New fair building dedicated with help of Kimberly Becker, Walter Krumery, Al Lerner, Stacy Olkiewicz, State Rep. Bill Peterson, Grayslake Mayor Marv Smith and Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis.
